

Election of PMA Community Committeemen, Delegate Set For Thursday, November 16

Election is Month Earlier This Year For ACP Program

The Production and Marketing Administration has set Thursday, November 16, as the date for electing committeemen who will administer PMA programs in Virginia next year. R. B. Bridgforth, PMA State Chairman, announced this week.

Farmers in each community that day will go to local polling places to elect, by secret ballot, a PMA community committee of three farmers. Communities usually comprise roughly two magisterial districts. There are 430 communities in Virginia's 99 agricultural counties.

Besides electing a community committee, farmers will choose a community delegate who will meet the next day with other delegates to elect a county committee of three for each county.

Mr. Bridgforth emphasized the importance of choosing the right men for committeemen by pointing to the scope of the Production and Marketing Administration programs for which they will be responsible. One of the largest of these, he said, is the Agricultural Conservation Program, which includes 70,000 farms and involves conservation payments this year of $4718,000. Also, this year, committeemen have administered prize support programs involving $3,374,000 in grain loans, and about $668,000 in the purchase of perishable farm products.

PMA committeemen, Mr. Bridgforth stated, must supervise the marketing of over 70,000 farms producing crops under marketing contracts, such as tobacco and peanuts, and they must supervise issuance of marketing cards to producers. Likewise, other crops like corn, wheat, and potatoes must be measured and records maintained each year of the acreage in production. Farm visits for measurement purposes alone this year totaled over 120,000.

Elections this year are being held a month earlier than usual, according to Mr. Bridgforth, to enable incoming committeemen to participate in the sign-up campaign for the 1951 Agricultural Conservation Program which officially commences in late fall.

Kempville H. S. Gets New Driver Education Car

Kline Chevrolet Furnishes Auto; Charles Instructor

The forty-two members of the two driver education classes at Kempville High School are proud of the new 1950 Deluxe Chevrolet dual control car furnished by Kline Chevrolet, Norfolk, in co-operation with the American Automobile Association. The car was delivered on October 16 and already every member of the two classes has successfully completed the first two lessons which consist of naming, locating, and giving the uses of the parts of the car, the gauges, control devices and safety devices; the proper procedure in starting the engine, and starting and stopping in first gear.

The first four weeks of the course was devoted to textbook study of the working parts of the car, driving hazards, and traffic laws with special attention given to proper attitudes toward driving. At the end of this period E. C. Bailey, examiner for the Division of Motor Vehicles, came to the school, administered tests, and issued learner's permits to pupils who successfully completed the tests. These permits allow the pupil to drive only when the holder of an operator's license is on the front seat of the car with him.

Each pupil will be allowed to advance at his own rate. When he has successfully completed the ten prescribed lessons he will then be ready to pass the road test for his operator's license.

The course lasts for one semester. Already thirty pupils have signed up for the second semester and there will probably be several more before that time.

Edwin Charles, athletic director at the school, is the instructor. Mr. Charles completed the course for teachers of driver education which was offered by the American Automobile Association at the College of William and Mary, V. P. I. Extension in Norfolk last November.

Creeds H. S. FFA Chapter Gets Registered Hereford Bull Calf

One of the 50 registered Hereford bull calves recently donated to the Farmers of America by the Roebuck Foundation, Inc., has been assigned to the Creeds High School FFA Chapter, according to S. B. Myers, vocational agriculture instructor at the school. The chapter in turn has assigned the bull to Frank Williams, sophomore vocational agriculture student and Creeds FFA member.

"Creeds FFA Chapter was selected to receive one of the bulls primarily because of the interests and efforts of Creeds students and instructor of vocational agriculture to produce better livestock in their community," says W. Cox, division superintendent of schools. Selection of chapters was made by the state office on the basis of applications showing number of head of livestock in the area served by the school, need for a purebred sire, and response on the part of students to teacher of vocational agriculture to make the most effective use of a purebred bull.

The young bull assigned to Williams, and the other 49 bulls distributed to FFA and NFA chapters in the state, will be used to up-breed and improve the quality of livestock in the communities in which they are located. "This is not a 'bull chain' or purebred livestock project," Mr. Myers points out. While the young bulls, as soon as they come of breeding age, may be used with purebred beef cows, they will also be used with grade cows to up-grade beef cattle and produce better veal calves.

The bulls came from Mill Iron Ranches in Texas. Covering 130,000 acres and operated on a unique unit system, Mill Iron Ranches is the largest producer of registered Herefords in the world. J. A. Hardy, Pulaski, and W. C. Dudley, Appomattox, area supervisors of vocational agriculture, selected the 50 bulls purchased by the Sear Roebuck Foundation, Inc., for the Virginia FFA.

The bulls were shipped to Virginia by truck and distributed from Roanoke and Richmond. Young farmer Williams, with Vo-Ag instructor Myers selected the Creeds Chapter bull from the Richmond lot of 25.

On the assumption that business prospers when agriculture prospers, the Sear Roebuck Foundation donated the bulls to the FFA as a means of increasing farm income from livestock.

B. P. Holland, First Citizen of Town, to be Honored

Virginia Beach will honor the man who became the first mayor of the town 44 years ago next Wednesday evening, November 8, at the Community House at 8 p.m.

Guest of honor will be B. P. Holland, who took over the town's leading job back in 1906 when the State granted a charter to the municipality. The town council will meet in extraordinary session at the Community House to pay tribute to the 83-year-old man who is Virginia Beach's first citizen.

Mr. Holland served for four terms in the office although not continuously, serving two of them from 1906 and two at later dates. Subsequently, he served many years on the town council.

Since Mr. Holland first became mayor he had seen many changes in the town—its growth in population from between 300 and 400 to the present 9000; the building up of the resort trade; the change from a tiny summer community to a nationally known seaside holiday haven.

Mr. Holland recently received recognition from the State Mosquito Control Board when they published excerpts from his first letter to the town council back in 1906 when he made recommendations concerning mosquito control.

Mr. Holland is a native of Prince Edward County, but has made his home and reared his family here.

The public is urged to attend the Wednesday meeting at the Community House.

The annual Christmas Seal Sale will get under way in Princess Anne County starting November 18 when the Virginia Beach committee mails out seals to local residents. Miss Blackmore Wins Honor at 4-H All-Star Annual Conference

Miss Cora Marie Blackmore, of Princess Anne County, who is now attending Madison College, Hagerstown, was named chairman of the Sixth Annual Inter-State 4-H All-Star Conference for 1951 at the annual 4-H All-Star Conference held recently at Newport, R. I. Next year's All-Star conference will be held in Tennessee.

Miss Blackmore wrote regarding her appointment in a letter to H. W. Odlin, county agent, in which she described the work being done by the conference.

Her letter continued: "Two cars went (to Newport) from Virginia and I traveled with three people from Rockingham, one from Isle of Wight, and Mr. W. A. Turner, assistant state boys' 4-H Club agent. While there we went to Boston, and also spent one night in New York City.

"Representatives were there from Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, Tennessee, and our new chapter in Mississippi. I only wish others could have been there from Princess Anne County."

"Next year we meet in Tennessee, and much to my surprise I was given some extra work to do, as I was elected chairman of the Sixth Annual Inter-State 4-H All-Star Conference of 1951. Thought I would let you know about it before it came out in the 4-H Club paper next month. Mr. Turner has written an article about it.

"These conferences are really an inspiration for club work."

"Mr. Odlin, I only wish we could make the All-Stars in our county realize how important it is to be an All-Star and what they can do for the club members."

(Signed) Cora Marie.

Lions Club Members Honored at Party

The Virginia Beach Lions Club entertained Monday night at the American Legion Club honoring members of the Lions Club. A Halloween theme was carried out in the decorations in the club room where the event was held. A midnight breakfast was served. The committee which planned the party included Mrs. William P. Kellam, Mrs. Lynn Kennett, Mrs. John Tucker and Mrs. Murray Malbon.

Town and County Chairmen Call for Renewed Effort

By Wednesday, only $2,049 toward a $4,000 goal for Virginia Beach in the Community Chest drive had been reported, according to E. W. Smith, treasurer. The county had not yet been heard from, Mr. Smith said.

Nevertheless, with but a few more days to the deadline, officials of the 1950 drive were hopeful that the total goal of $13,000 would be reached.

Mr. Smith explained that the figure he gave the press was inconclusive. The $2,049 did not include the residential sections, where members of the Junior Woman's Club are conducting the canvass. Since the residential section takes in such a large territory, he felt assured that their report would swell the total considerably. Moreover, there were still sections in the business district not yet heard from.

R. F. Trant, Jr., general chairman, has issued an appeal to all workers "to redouble their efforts during the closing days of the drive and to recruit additional workers if that is necessary to do the job."

Spot checks in various divisions indicate that nearly all were lagging behind at the Wednesday check. If the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne County campaign continues to lag, it is probable that the original closing date of November 6 will be extended at least a week in order that workers may make a complete canvass.

Admiral James M. Shoemaker, chairman of the Virginia Beach division of the drive, also voiced the hope that his workers would devote as much time as possible to the campaign during the next week. Admiral Shoemaker stated that "parts of the Virginia Beach division are nearing their quotas, but other sections have raised as little as one-third of their objective."

Mrs. R. G. Barr, Jr., and Mrs. J. Peter Holland, III, co-chairmen of the Junior Woman's Club committee soliciting the residential areas, have reported that collections are slow, but that added workers have volunteered. "We are very encouraged and expect to reach our goal shortly," they stated.

TOWN MANAGER TO SPEAK AT BOTANY MEETING

W. Russell Hatchett, new town manager of Virginia Beach, will be the principal speaker at the regular Thursday night dinner meeting of the Rotary Club on Thursday, November 9.

NEW MANAGER—New manager of the real estate office of Smith, Gustafson and Terry is Rufus S. Kight, Jr., who resigned recently as manager of the Cavalier Youth and Country Club, where he has been for five years. Mr. Kight will continue to serve as secretary of the club.

Letters from Teen-Agers

We have received several letters from our teen-agers overseas. These members write with the same teen-age spirit. It gives us great pleasure to know our club is remembered in Korea and all around the world; a letter came from the far North, one from Continental Europe and one from the Far East. These boys are all anxious to know what's going on at the beach. It is the wish of our board to have a scroll made and the names of our teen-agers who go into service placed on it. It is my wish to organize a group in our club to get all the news they can to send our members wherever they may be, and this should be done at least once a month.

Last week you were given our activity for the month of October. One can see from this that our club is headed for big things. We have over two hundred members and each and every one takes a lot of interest and joy in being a part of it.

Our Monday, Wednesday and Friday athletic program is proving very popular for the young boys. Many fathers are dropping by to see their sons in action. We like to see the fathers and mothers drop by often.

Respectfully,
Wm. H. Pantone, Director

Entered as second class matter August 7, 1925, at the Post Office of Virginia Beach, Virginia, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

WHY NOT CONSOLIDATE OUR HIGH SCHOOLS?

The school situation throughout the county is at this time at a very serious point. With three high schools and five elementary schools for white pupils available, there is such crowding in the majority of them that our youngsters are not getting the attention they deserve.

In the Kempsville District, a delegation of citizens from the Parent-Teacher Association and the Council of Civic Clubs has already made approaches to the School Board asking that a total of some 37 additional rooms be provided at the Kempsville High School, Kempsville Elementary School and the Bayside School. Crowding is so severe that classes are held in a church building and wherever they can be crowded in.

At Oceana, frame buildings of antiquated design, buildings once abandoned as unfit, have been pressed into service to house the youngsters.

At W. T. Cooke School every available bit of space is being utilized, with the outlook for next year very black indeed.

All of this in spite of the fact that the schools named above have just completed one or two programs of enlargement.

At Virginia Beach there is a clamor for up-to-the-minute high school facilities—$700,000 has been provided for a high school building which has been described as "adequate" and which is designed to house also the overflow from the elementary school.

At Kempsville, the people declare themselves willing to appropriate $1,000,000 through a bond issue to build the needed additions to their three schools.

It appears to the News that this is the time to take a new view of the situation.

Why not a county-wide consolidated high school to take care of all the high school age children—a school which will by the very economics it will effect in the school setup provide for a finer curriculum, a curriculum that will be better rounded and give its pupils advantages that are not now available in the present setup of several small high schools.

Let us look at these advantages. The staff of one large high school would not be so numerous as it would be for four small high schools. With the savings in teacher salaries because numbers are cut, top-notch personnel would be obtainable.

With the savings effected because duplication of facilities will be avoided, a fuller, better-rounded course of studies will be possible—laboratories, shops and other needed facilities will be better equipped, because one fine laboratory or shop is cheaper than four mediocre ones.

Transportation will be no problem, for a centralized high school can be reached in not more than 30 minutes at the most from any point in the county.

And last, but far from least, one athletic department, one stadium, has big advantages over four small ones. It would put the teams in a position to compete with the first class teams. It would allow for fuller participation in more sports. It would allow so many advantages that they cannot be enumerated here.

The buildings now used as high schools could be taken over by the elementary schools to provide for their overflow, for the buildings themselves are good.

The cost of such a school would be large, naturally, for good things are not cheap. The cost to run such a school, however, would effect large savings over the cost of running four small high schools.

Roughly, the cost would be in the neighborhood of $3,000,000 to $4,000,000—and that is a liberal estimate. But that cost shrinks considerably when one takes into consideration that the Kempsville District is already thinking in terms of a million dollars for its district alone, and the town of Virginia Beach has available $700,000.

A consolidated high school—centralized, fully equipped as to plant, and staffed with the best faculty—is well worth the thoughtful consideration of the people of the county who want the best for their children.

Now is the time to give it thought before more makeshift solutions to the problem put the cost of the present investment so high that the consolidated school would be out of the question financially.

LOOKING BACK

TWENTY-ONE YEARS AGO—NOVEMBER 1, 1929

The November 1, 1929, issue front page of the Virginia Beach News was given over to politics and the elections to be held the following Tuesday. John Garland Pollard was Democratic nominee for Governor, John R. Dey was up for reelection to the House of Delegates, with C. H. Mast opposing him on the Republican ticket.

The duck season opened the day the News was published, and a lot of the front page was given over to prospects. Huntmen were optimistic, and indications were that feed was plentiful to attract the game. Daily bag limit was 25, with a season limit of 350 per hunter.

A county council of Parent-Teacher's Association was formed with the president and one representative of each P.-T. A. belonging. Presidents of the various P.-T. A.'s in the county were: Mrs. S. A. Brock, Oceana; G. B. Bryant, Kempsville; Mrs. R. T. Fountain, Courthouse; Mrs. W. L. Gregory, Greeds; Mrs. Albert Carroll, Charity; Mrs. E. C. Turner, Bayside; I. W. Hardy, Blackwa-

Behind the Scenes in American Business

New York—Bankers—both big city and small town—are not sharing in the industrial earnings boom. They are being forced to seek every dollar of economy they can find. This is not a new problem, for the rising cost of things they buy and the squeeze put on them by low interest rates, have been taking a toll for some time. But since Korea they problems have increased.

Many a banker, tired of the struggle with mounting operating costs, has sought a purchaser. His best bet is to consolidate with another bank to reduce overhead. Hence, we have been having a rash of mergers. Manufacturers Trust Co., New York, has taken over Brooklyn Trust Co.; Bankers Trust Co., New York, absorbed Lawyers Trust and Title Company and Trust. Chemical Bank recently absorbed the Continental Bank and Trust Co., and the Marine Midland bought the Bank of Yorktown.

In other areas the Seattle-First National Bank merged with the Citizens State Bank of Omak, Washington. The Fidelity Trust Co. of Newark, acquired the Essex Title Guaranty and Trust Co. The Colonial Trust Co. of Pittsburgh bought that city's Keystone National Bank. And so it goes, in smaller towns and cities the merger negotiations are under way. This is no reflection on the banking business fundamentally. With our Federally insured deposits the business is on a good foundation. But the high cost of doing business is bothersome.

HOME MODERNIZATION—American families will spend $335,000,000 this year for new front porches, breakfast nooks and that second tiled bathroom. This is the sum, according to Government estimates, which will be expended in 1950 for structural changes and major home alterations. The figure is an important one to the home building industry, for it gives manufacturers and suppliers an excellent gauge of potential demand. Most of the clay tile being produced today, for instance, goes into new homes. But the industry must also be prepared to serve the thousands of families who want to add a tiled bathroom to their present home, or to convert other spaces to tiled baths or showers. Between $65,000,000 and $65,000,000 will be spent on this type of alteration alone, the tile industry estimates. It's a huge market, and one that ter, Mrs. R. B. Barr, Virginia Beach.

The county's school teachers association, with a membership of 83, planned a business meeting to draw up a program for the coming year. Officers of the association were: B. G. Porter, Oceana, president; Mary Kellam, Virginia Beach, vice president; Gertrude Whitehurst, Courthouse, secretary; and Ruby Gernto, Oceana, treasurer.

The Epworth League of Nimmo M. E. Church held a Halloween social on the church grounds the previous Saturday. The social was arranged by Miss Alice Hardy and Richard Kellam. Games were played in which everybody participated. Charles Upton won the prize for the best costume.

Lt. Cmdr. Crenshaw Joins Navy Men in Exercises in Mediterranean Area

Lt. Cmdr. Russell S. Crenshaw, USN, husband of Mrs. Flavienne G. Crenshaw, of Bird Neck Point, recently joined with Navy men from Italy, France and Great Britain in a chart exercise at Cagliari, Sardinia, in the Mediterranean.

Fleet Commanders-in-Chief from these nations met with Admiral Richard L. Conolly, U. S. Naval Forces, Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean, aboard the heavy cruiser USS Columbus.

The chart exercise involved the solution of a Naval problem based on a situation which might confront the combined Mediterranean Naval forces of France, Italy, Great Britain and the United States.

Admiral Conolly, who conceived and planned the exercise, which was the initial get-together of the Mediterranean Naval staff, believes that it has promoted a "common understanding of certain essential responsibilities in the Mediterranean."

Forests cover a larger proportion of New England than any other comparable region in the United States.

WHAT'S YOUR WASHDAY WORRY?

IT'S a heartbreaking thing—maybe it's happened to you... you've lugged a heavy basket of damp clothes out to the clothesline... you pin up the clothes... and then, when you're almost finished... the clothesline breaks and down go your clothes! Or—if you're lucky enough to have sunny weather for drying, someone may start burning trash or heating rugs a few doors away—and your clothes are ready for the washer again. Or the kids start playing in-and-out among the sheets and towels!

You don't have to worry about such things—or the weather—when you have an ELECTRIC CLOTHES DRYER. It saves time, temper, trouble and clothes. And when you see how big a help an electric clothes dryer can be, you'll say it's well worth the reasonable cost... and the electricity to run it costs so little!

Daffodils for Permanent Beauty

by Henry E. Aul

Daffodils are a permanent investment in springtime loveliness.
You plant them as early as they can be obtained this fall and they will bloom without question next April or May and for many springs thereafter, usually increasing their numbers with each new blooming season. You can lift and store the bulbs after they have flowered and the foliage has ripened, but most gardeners set out annual flowering plants between and over them and allow them to remain in the ground undisturbed until they need to be separated. Then, replant them at once or store the bulbs for a short period and replant in early September.

No other hardy bulbs are easier to grow than daffodils. They require a soil of only average fertility and they may be planted in sun or semi-shade. They flower best in a moist but well drained
site in groups in the flower borders, in natural colonies under trees and shrubs and in drifts on the lawn, along the woodland path or in other gardens of native plants. Legend places them by the pool-side, the garden brook and pond where reflections double their beauty.

Their bright white, yellow, orange, vivid orange-scarlet and delicate pink colors are a cheerful fulfillment of spring wherever they are seen. They are well displayed amid their own foliage and against the dark green of yew, hemlock, juniper and other evergreen trees. Mountain laurel, the andromeda, rhododendrons, annises and leucotheas are broadleaved evergreens that are congenial daffodil companions. Flowering crabapples, peach and plum trees, star magnolia, flowering quince and Thunbergia spirea are among the deciduous shrubs and trees that are in flower with them.
Lower-growing materials that can be combined with daffodils include the moss pink (pink sub-ulata), the blue-pink Virginia bluebell (mercurialis), white rockcress (arabidopsis) and, of course, blue grape hyacinths (muscari). These per, minute hyacinth spikes come in colors that combine readily with all daffodil flowers while their low stature assures a grouping of fine-ture form. Late flowering daffodils can be naturalized with bleeding hearts and blue phlox divaricata in the regular garden border.

There are numerous flowering types among the daffodils and all of them are worthy of the gardener's attention. There are the large trumpet daffodils, which along with the medium trumpet and large-cupped incomparabilis and the short-cupped Barri and Leda types are particularly showy in groups of six to twelve or more in the regular flower borders. The bunch-flowered Poetas, the Jonquilla and the fragrant double daffodils also are right at home in border groupings and in spot plantings beside the garden terrace, bench or gate.

The short, scarlet-cupped poets,
the jonquilla and other short cup and medium trumpet types are especially suited to planting in drifts and groups to obtain natural effects. Most of the trumpets and incomparabilis types can be used in this manner also. And remember that practically all daffodils furnish excellent cut flowers. They usually are the first flowers to be cut and brought in after a long winter and as such they bring a beauty and fragrance to the home that is unsurpassed by the flowers to follow.

Bulbs are spaced six to eight inches apart in planting pockets dug at least 6 1/2 inches deep. A handful of bone meal, dried mature or other plant food is worked into each square foot of soil beneath the bulbs, and they are planted on a thin layer of sand or soil free of plant food. Then the top soil is replaced carefully around and over the bulbs. A mulch of leaves, hay or straw can be placed over the bulbs, after the surface of the soil has frozen.

Take this much of gradually starting in March or when the growing tips appear. (Courtesy

OCEANA HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Extra Curricular Activities

The Allied Youth of Oceana High School began a game weekend by first piling into a truck Saturday and taking a hayride to Croatan Beach. Here the group at lunch, played softball, just captured, and had a really good time. Miss Sterling and Mrs. Wood chaperoned this outing, which ended at Oceana about 3:30.

The group held a dance at the Community House beginning at 8 o'clock. The gym was decorated in a most attractive manner with crepe paper, cornstalks, and other things suggestive of fall and Halloween. There was food for everybody, a jukebox, and just lots of fun for all. Pictures were taken for the Allied Youth monthly paper.

The Literary Club of Oceana High held a short meeting Monday morning. Along with discussion of plans for going to the "Ice Follies" in Norfolk, the following officers were elected: Mary Lewis Peck, president; Ora Dail Hardy, recorder; and Julian McDaniel, recreation chairman.

The Dramatic Club had little to report this week. Plays are still being reviewed and plans are in the making for the production of a one-act play soon. Try-outs for new members are to be held this week.

Oceana J. V.'s To Meet Portlock November 8

The Oceana Junior Varsity will take on the Portlock Junior Varsity at the Cavalier Stadium on November 8 at 2:30 p.m. The little Cavaliers are anxious to redeem themselves if possible, having lost to the little Pioneers 8-7 at Portlock in the early part of August. This is the last game of the season for both clubs.

Oceana Tops Great Bridge 6-4 by Howard Savage

Oceana snapped their losing streak last Friday night by defeating Great Bridge 6 to 4 at the Cavalier Stadium. Oceana, losing in their last four starts, managed to score in the second quarter for the only score of the game. Wilson Johnson paced the Cavaliers with his running, getting away for a few sizeable gains.

Great Bridge kicked off to Oceana and from then on the ball re-arrived from side to side with Great Bridge threatening once or twice. The first quarter ended with no score.

Oceana got off to a spirited march in the second quarter and ended with Bobby Bourdon going over from the one foot line. The try for the extra point was unsuccessful. Great Bridge failed to threaten seriously and the half ended with Oceana out ahead by a score of 6 to 0.

The third and fourth quarters failed to yield a score for either team. The game ended with Great Bridge on the Oceana 20-yard line.

CLARE STEVENS CAPTURED WITH AMPHIBIOUS FORCE MARSHALL CHAMBERS

Clyde Stevens, BMCS, USN, of Caroline and Baltic Avenues, who is serving at the U. S. Naval Amphibious Base at Little Creek, recently completed a successful season as catcher with the Amphibious Force baseball team.

The team, which ended the 959 season with a total of four championships to their credit, was presented with a gold trophy by Admiral W. M. Fechteler, USN, Commander-in-Chief of the Atlantic Fleet.

Stevens, who entered the Naval service in September, 1928, formerly attended New Kent County High School.

-will you be there?

• We say that "majority rules" in America. At best, this is only guesswork.

• The fact is that in election after election, millions upon millions of qualified voters fail to go to the polls.

• These are the people who, in one of their greatest mistakes, think that their one vote "won't matter."

• But there are so many of them. And so long as their votes remain uncast, we can never be sure that the voice of the people is the voice of authority in America.

• Tuesday, November 7, is Election Day. WILL YOU BE THERE?

• One-third of our U. S. Senators and all of our Representatives, and many State and local officials will be chosen on that day. They are being chosen at one of the most critical times in our nation's history. Tuesday, as never before, every American blessed with the sacred right to cast a secret vote owes it to himself and to the millions of his fellow Americans to select the candidates he believes are best fitted for public office, and who will work earnestly and unceasingly to keep this nation free . . . then vote for those candidates, come what may.

• WILL YOU BE THERE?

• There are thousands of your fellow countrymen — fighting Americans — who cannot be at the polls Tuesday. Let's hope that the news will go out to them that on this vitally important day, America turned out in the fullest force ever to show them how deeply we cherish those rights of freedom for which they are fighting so heroically.

• BE THERE . . . NEXT TUESDAY.

*For example, look at these Presidential Election figures (U. S. Bureau of The Census) as far back as 1932.

CREEDS High School News

Student Council Reorganized
The Creeds Student Council has been reorganized for the 1950-51 school year. Officers elected were:
Jackie Whitehurst, secretary; John
Salmon and Velma Swadlow, Juniors; Frances Mae Williams
and Louis Cullipher, sophomores; Emily Murphy and Jennie Lindsey, freshmen; and Cecil Simpson and Donna Waterman, eight grade, as council members. Ru-gene Fleming was elected president; Jackie Whitehurst, vice president; and Frances Williams, secretary.

The council, which is the student governing body of the school, will have as its duty the general betterment of the school, and the general welfare of the pupils. Students declare that it is one of the most useful organizations in the school.

The twice monthly school as-semblies will be supervised by the student council. The Ministerial Association of Princess Anne sends a visiting minister to conduct a devotional period for each assembly.

A community calendar of the churches, school, and club activities is being prepared by the student council and sent out each month to those in the community that would find use for it. Creeds School publicity in the various newspapers, as well as the editing of the school newspaper, is handled by the members of the student council.

All disciplinary problems among the pupils referred to the council will be considered and recommendations made to the principal.

One of the big projects for this year will be to raise money to buy and install a radio in each of the school buses in the belief that radio will make the buses
safer and more enjoyable.

Creeds Is Defeated by South Norfolk J. V.'s

The Creeds High School team suffered a 20 to 14 defeat at the hands of the South Norfolk Baby Tigers in a game played October 26 at Cascade Park.

The Indians, minus the services of Gene Wade, quarterback, and with Otto Halstead seeing only limited action, gave way to the more experienced city boys in the final quarter.

Creeds scored its first touchdown on a 15-yard run by Otto Halstead. A pass to End Eugene Fleming was good for the extra point. Halstead scored again, faking
a pass and then choosing to run 30 yards around right end,
climaxing an eighty-yard march.
The extra point was scored by Quarterback Halstead, who sneaked over for the point. Otto Halstead also ran 75 yards for a touchdown in the second quarter, but this was called back.

Garden Club on "Fall and Winter Planting" at their regular meet-

as well as bulbs of all kinds.
Stock, he suggested, is one of the White candytuft, as well as pansies, make good borders for spring flower gardens. Other flowers which do well in this vicinity and could be planted at this time are larkspur, cornflower, sweet pea,

anthemium, Chinese bloom flower,
geranium, gailardia, scabiosa, veronica,
hardy primrose, lily of the valley,
and bleeding heart.

Flowers that grow well in all shades, Mr. Driskill further stated, are turban, columbine, vinca,
hardy primrose, lily of the valley,
and bleeding heart.

VIRGINIA BEACH, VIRGINIA — FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1950

SINGLE COPY 5c — $2.00 PER YEAR

B. P. Holland, 83, First Mayor of Virginia Beach, Presented Key To City at Special Council Session

Mr. Allen, Town's Oldest Citizen, Makes Presentation

Bernard Peabody Holland, 83, first mayor of Virginia Beach, was honored by his townsmen on Wednesday when a special session of the town's council was called to present him with the first key to the city. Presentation was made by James E. Allen, 82, the town's oldest citizen.

Mr. Holland, in a short address, recalled the early days of Virginia Beach when he came here in 1899 as an agent of the Norfolk and Virginia Beach Railroad and Improvement Corporation. A record of prominence from the beginning, the old Princess Anne Hotel, which was built in 1897, attracted many people of national note, including President Benjamin Harrison, Alexander Graham Bell, Charles W. Field, James G. Smith, the McCormicks of Chicago, and other guests in the nation's history.

"When Robert Ingersoll was here," Mr. Holland said, "one lady guest at the Princess Anne named a terrible storm that occurred at the same time on the presence of Ingersoll, the atheist."

In 1897, too, the first lots were sold, starting the Virginia Beach we know now. Judge F. M. Whitehurst, Col. Lucian Starke, Bishop Tucker, and George White Taylor were among the first recorded purchasers of lots. The Improvement Company also gave land for the old Infant Sanitarium which Mrs. James M. Jordan, Mrs. Barton Myers, and Miss Nona Wilson had brought to the beach during the summer. It had started in Norfolk by the same people and others before.

Mr. Holland told of the first bulkhead which was built from 16th Street to 18th Street to connect with the lagoon, and its extension in 1898 to 17th Street and 8th Street on the south. Even then, he said, the beach was troubled with erosion. "We are lucky," he said, "to have the great store of sand at Cape Henry to replenish the sand washed from our beach."

The key which was presented by the town to Mr. Holland is wrought brass, gold plated. Mr. Allen, in making the presentation, declared that Mr. Holland had "a key to the hearts of the people of Virginia Beach. As long as you have the key, Virginia Beach is in safe hands."

Junior Woman's Club Represented at State Forum in Richmond

Mrs. James W. Allen, Jr., president, and Mrs. R. Lynn Kennett, elected delegate, represented the Junior Woman's Club of Princess Anne County at the annual Virginia Woman's Forum in Richmond yesterday.

The theme for the day was "Woman's Place in a Changing World." Speakers for the morning session included Mrs. Georgia Neese Clark, United States Treasurer; Max Love, assistant Secretary of Defense; and Madame Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, India's ambassador to the United States.

The afternoon session was held in Miller and Rhoads Tea Room and the Honorable William Averell Harriman, assistant to the President for Foreign Affairs, was the only speaker. A main event of the program was a discussion period at which the day's talks were summarized by Mrs. Helen Hiett Waller, director of the New York Herald Tribune Forum. All speakers were on the stage and Mrs. Waller propounded questions to them which were proposed by representatives from the various clubs in Virginia.

At the conclusion, refreshments were served.

Community Chest Drive Extended; Reports Lagging

Officials of the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne County Community Chest have announced that the closing date of the drive has been extended until Wednesday, November 15. Approximately $8,000 of the $4,500 goal for Virginia Beach has been reported.

A plea was made to those residents of the town and county not yet solicited to send in their contributions by check.

Admiral James M. Shooter, chairman of the Virginia Beach division, has expressed optimism that the goal set will be surpassed. He issued an appeal to workers to complete their canvassing on time.

One obstacle workers have faced this year that has hindered collections is the housewife's plea that their husbands contribute in Norfolk or elsewhere so they feel they should not be solicited.

Heuben F. Trant, Jr., general chairman, has been unsuccessful in gathering workers' reports so that a total for the county cannot be ascertained until a later date. All reports are to be turned in November 15.

Glenn Clark, Noted Author, to Visit Here in January

Glenn Clark, author of some 30 books, such as "A Man's Beach," "The Soul's Sincere Desire," "I Will Lift Up Mine Eyes," and "What Would Jesus Do?" and the director of the 30 "Camp Fire-theat Out" across the country this summer, will visit Virginia Beach January 21-24, 1951. He comes under the sponsorship of the Prayer Groups, and will be here four days, one day in each of the Protestant churches, according to the Rev. Edmund Berkeley.

Mr. Berkeley said the sponsors would like to urge the public to keep these dates, January 21 to 24, open for this opportunity to hear one of the finest religious thinkers, writers, and speakers in the United States.

Mr. Clark's books are widely translated and used across Europe and Asia, as well as in our own country.

Local Library Has Good Selection of Recent Best Sellers

Late additions to the Virginia Beach Library contain a selection of best sellers. Those fabulous Galbraiths of "Cheaper by the Dozen" fame have been enlivened again in "Bells On Their Toes." Others are John Steinbeck's latest, "Burning Bright"; "A Fearful Joy" by Jayce Cary; Ingils Fletcher's "Bennett's Welcome"; and a startling novel by Henry Green called "Back." The latter is the story of a man repatriated from a German prison camp, and knowing that his girl, Rose, has died in the interim picks up the pieces of his life with the aid of a girl he finds to be incredibly like his lost love. Mr. Green has written eight novels all together, including "Nothing" and "Loving."

The library maintains a suggestion list for books that readers might want added to their list, and asks patrons not to hesitate to make suggestions. Donations of books to the library are always wanted.

The library is located in the Community House at 19th and Baltic and is open six days a week from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and from 3:00 to 4:30 p.m. Membership is 75 cents for three months.

Herman Staats of Oceana High School and Hunter Spence of Creeds High School have been announced as the first two school winners of the Voice of Democracy Contest being sponsored jointly by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the National Association of Broadcasters, and the Radio Manufacturers Association.

Two more winners will be chosen—one from the Kempsville High School, the other from the Princess Anne Training School—after competitions which take place today.

On November 15, the four county winners will go to Norfolk where they will record their speeches at Radio Station WTAR, and the county-wide winner will be selected to compete in the State competition. Oceana, Seatack Fire Departments Get Certificates

State Education Official Praises Work of Groups

V. B. Robinson, State Department of Education, last Friday presented certificates of credit for advanced fire instruction to members of the Oceana and Seatack Volunteer Fire Departments. The presentation took place at the fire house in Seatack.

Mr. Robinson said that the Seatack Volunteers are the first and only Negro fire department in the State and in the Nation according to his information. He praised them as "well trained, most zealous" in their devotion to duty. "These men have done a splendid job," he said.

He also praised the cooperative spirit in the county which has been manifested in the great help which the leaders of the volunteer movement have given the Negro group. He singled out not only the Oceana Volunteers, but also Chief E. B. Bayne, who has been instrumental in teaching the Seatack Volunteers much of their basic training, and also President of the Fire Council Ivan Mapp.

The certificates, Mr. Mapp explained in distributing them, are "something to be proud of" and a "testament to the good work" of five of his men. He received the certificate of others from Oceana who could not be present.

Thirty-one members of the Seatack group were present to receive their certificates. Chief is Aaron Parsons, assistant chief is Bernard Miley. Leonidas Northern is chief engineer.

The Seatack group is organized with a president, who is Joseph Cristofano, and a vice-president, Robert L. Gardiner. The group was organized two years ago. It covers a territory roughly bounded by Laskin Boulevard and Camp Pendleton.

Since its organization, the men have raised more than $4,000 for equipment which includes a fire truck purchased from Oceana, when that company bought a new one, new modern type fire hose, and other equipment.

Mrs. Ansell Wins Orchid in Safe Driving Check-up

Mrs. L. H. Ansell, of Bay Colony, was the winner of the orchid presented to the most careful and courteous automobile driver this week. The presentation of the orchid was made by the Virginia Beach Police. It was furnished by the King Florists in recognition of National Flower Week.

Chief of Police Reeves E. Johnson said that he sent a squad car out searching for the careful driver who was to be the lucky recipient of the prize on Monday afternoon about 3 p.m. when school children normally are on the streets. The police in the squad car reported that Mrs. Ansell demonstrated a fine thoughtfulness for others; that she drove carefully, observing traffic lights, signs, and gave hand signals whenever they were called for.

Chief Johnson said that she appeared to be a little surprised when the police stopped her car after they had followed her for several blocks, but that she seemed to be overjoyed to be the recipient of the honor.

She is associated with the Happy Hours Kindergarten at Oceana.

LEGION AUXILIARY TO MEET MONDAY NIGHT

The November meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 113 will be held at the American Legion Club House Monday night, November 13, at 8 o'clock.

As this is membership month, Mrs. Fred Strickland, membership chairman for the club, will present a special program.

All dues should be paid by this meeting.

The members of the Princess Anne County Medical Society, in hearty cooperation with the American Diabetic Association, asks for community-wide interest in this program, as it affects every man, woman and child in the community. Dr. Corpening stated. They urge that every member of the family be tested if they have not had a recent examination.

It is estimated there are a million undiscovered diabetics today. The doctors ask residents to carry a specimen of urine to their family physician so that those afflicted can be treated. The earlier the treatment is begun the better the prognosis, and a longer, healthier life is assured. Lack of diagnosis and treatment often results in disastrous complications.

Pre-Employment Students to Help Merchants in Rush

Oceana and Kempsville high schools are now offering pre-employment classes taught by Miss Maryann Rogers, coordinator of Distributive Education, according to F. W. Cox, superintendent of Princess Anne County schools.

This course is only open to students sixteen years old or over who are interested in obtaining a job in a retail establishment during the Christmas holidays. Pre-employment training consists of ten hours of instruction on salesmanship, math, business etiquette and stock-keeping. Classes, which have started in both schools, will be completed by Thanksgiving.

Miss Rogers explains that students enrolled in the class are not assured a job, however, no student will be placed on a job unless they have had this course. Upon completion of this class, each student who has a 100 per cent attendance record will be presented an introductory card explaining to merchants that the student has had a 16-hour course in selling.

The Oceana students will work at Virginia Beach and Oceana, and the Kempsville students will be placed in Norfolk. Pre-employment is offered to help merchants secure trained extras for the Christmas rush period.

Election Thursday, November 16, Vital To Farm People

Voting on November 16 in the annual election of community committeemen of the Production Marketing Administration will be by secret ballot at the following community polling places:

Blackwater—Lewis Parsons' Store.
Pungo—A. E. Williams' Store.
Seaboard—Court House East Service Station.
Lynnhaven—Planagan's Store.
Kempsville—Denny and Brinkley's Store.

Voting places will be open November 16 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Princess Anne County farmers were urged to share in the "grass-roots" administration of their farm programs by taking part in the election by R. W. Lane, who is the present PMA County Committee Chairman.

"We need the most capable committeemen we can find," the County Chairman said, "and above all, they should be the ones which the majority of farmers in each community want. Only by a fully representative vote in each community can this be accomplished."

"Mounting defense activities may be expected during the coming year which may bring on problems of obtaining seed, fertilizer, or construction materials," Mr. Lane pointed out. "Defense activity may also mean increased production of certain commodities, as in the last war. If increased production is needed, we must be prepared to meet the situation without unduly depleting the soil reserves we have built up during the past five years. If emergency efforts are required, the Secretary of Agriculture has already named PMA as the organization to carry the ball on the farm front."

Elections on November 16 will be for a community committee of three farmers in each community and a delegate to the county convention. The county convention will meet November 17, the next day, to elect a three-man county committee.

The chairman explained that any person is eligible to vote who participated in the Agricultural Conservation Program, or who carried out approved conservation practices, or anyone who was eligible for price supports, or who held a Federal Crop Insurance contract.

The names listed below were selected by nominating committees and will appear on the ballots of their respective communities:

Kempsville District: B. E. Davis, W. C. Deford, Albert Gomez, J. L. Hargrove, O. B. Jackson, Richard Krahnenbill, W. W. Oliver, J. G. Petres, John L. Wood, and Dan S. Yoder.

Lynnhaven District: J. A. Broughton, A. C. Brown, A. J. Croonenbergh, J. B. Fairbanks, Russell Davis, R. A. Midgett, Walter Miller, Dean Potter, John Potter, and F. R. Reader.

Seaboard District: Wilbur J. Bonny, Russell A. Brown, Joe I. Hirschberger, Jr., F. R. King, B. A. Manns, Cameron Menden, J. B. Sawyer, R. Everett Sawyer, C. E. Upton, Jr., and W. W. White.

Pungo District: Marion Bright, F. A. M. Burroughs, H. L. Craft, Russell Dudley, A. D. Malone, W. Bert Spence, C. M. Vaughan, Floyd Watfield, Roy S. Whitehurst, and K. N. Whitehurst.

Blackwater District: Frank Barovich, C. L. Davenport, R. L. Frost, Southgate Ives, Stuart Ives, C. W. Lewis, Earl McClain, M. B. Miller, Lewis Parsons, and C. W. Shirley.

Farmers will vote for three community committeemen. The three names receiving the highest vote in each community will vote for a county committee.

PURCHASE BY POLITICAL PREFERENCE

Some weeks ago, the News commented editorially on the possibility of the county setting up a centralized agency for making purchases in a businesslike, equitable manner. We suggested that such a system would be a saving to the taxpayers, and hinted that it would take purchasing out of the political preference class.

This latter point we want to stress again. Political preference has gained a stronghold on the county in its financial dealings, the same kind of a stranglehold that it once held on the town (although the new town manager assures us that it is a thing of the past).

It is manifested in throwing all business to friends and those who can be politically helpful without regard to such factors as economy, savings, or quality. It means that a man does not have to be an accredited artisan in his class to get business; he simply has to be "one of the boys." It means that big buying or quantity buying in wholesale lots is out, unless the dealer is "one of the boys."

It means, moreover, that a system of blacklists has been set up to put those who are not "one of the boys" in their place at the bottom of the political and economic totem pole. Blacklists and reprisals are not pretty words, but evidence of them both are at hand.

Of course, if this state of affairs is cured through some system of bids and centralized purchasing (removed from political factors) the political machine will lose much of its power to make friends and influence people.

There is nothing like a threat to a man's pocketbook, his business, and his future to make him come back in line, his tail tucked between his legs like a whipped dog. It is a powerful incentive to toe the mark, to stop up his conscience, and let the politicians go on about their business as they will.

The News has felt the lash of the political whip, of the "do it our way or else" attitude that is prevalent in the county. And we do not stand alone in the reprisals.

The reprisal way of conducting business has taken an interesting turn in the county, linked up with the blacklist system, and complicated by it. Here is the way it works. Some businessman arouses the ire of the powers-that-be. He is put on the blacklist, and gets no direct business. Then, the "boys" pass the word around, and tell others: "If you continue to do business with so-and-so, we will no longer do business with you. Do business with our boys."

That constitutes a double-whammy reprisal. The question is not whether or not that man's product is inferior, whether or not he is a better architect, or lawyer, or printer, or insurance salesman—it is simply a question of "Is he one of the boys? Will he close his eyes to everything and follow blindly where we lead?"

This sort of thing can be cured—must be cured in our county. The loaf of bread, the pound of potatoes, the insurance, all the other goods and services purchased, must be purchased for the best good of all the people of the county—not just the best good of the few. Not for "just the boys."

THE COMMUNITY CHEST LAGS

The Community Chest in Princess Anne County has been given a seven-day extension of time in order that the canvassers can reach all of the people.

In a rural county like ours, however, house-to-house canvassing is a very difficult thing to do. If you have not yet been reached, why not mail in your contribution to either the general chairman of the drive, Reuben F. Trant, Jr., of London Bridge, or to the treasurer, E. W. Smith, at the Bank of Virginia Beach? It would help a lot if we are to gain our appointed goal. The Community Chest is too fine a thing to have fail.

Another suggestion made we believe to be a good one. Many persons have said that their contribution has gone into the Norfolk Community Chest.

Let those persons think that we here in Princess Anne County also have many services and agencies supported by the Community Chest which receive not one penny from Norfolk's Chest. The benefit of their help to the county drive will be apparent. Why not give in your own county, too, that the agencies supported locally which mean so much to you and yours may continue to function?

LOOKING BACK

TWENTY-ONE YEARS AGO—NOVEMBER 8, 1929

The Virginia Beach News for November 8, 1929, reported that Princess Anne County joined the Democratic landslide in the elections held that week. The county had deserted the Democratic party in 1928, but came back into the fold to give the Democratic standard bearer, John Garland Pollard, in the gubernatorial election a two to one majority. Only the Courthouse held out for the Republican candidate, Dr. William Mosley Brown, anti-Smith fusion candidate.

Only one serious occurrence was reported as a result of the annual Halloween celebration—somewhere between 8 and 9 o'clock the Atlantic and Pacific Store was entered through a side door and some $25 of candy, cigarettes and fruit was taken. Chief of Police Ernest Land said that children ranging in age from six to 18 found a side door improperly locked and entered the store to help themselves. No trick; all treat.

A play, the Old Red Plush Album, a series of songs and "old fashioned pictures" with live figures was given by the Circle of the Charity Woman's Missionary Auxiliary, under the direction of Mrs. A. S. Menden. A minstrel followed the play.

At the Courthouse School the following were on the honor roll:

Behind the Scenes in American Business

New York—Santa Claus will probably get around to every kiddie this year, but it's not going to be easy. Following a tour of 99 toy factories, the executive secretary of the toy industry's trade association states that almost without exception they are complaining about material scarcities. Some need packaging materials, others basic materials such as copper wire, wood, zinc and steel.

Toy makers are not big consumers of materials, consequently they do not have the standing with big suppliers that other large civilian manufacturers enjoy. And their problems are not going to get too much sympathy in Washington where the National Production Authority is reading an order to channel most copper and aluminum to military uses.

This year the toy makers will turn out products worth about $300 million at the factory level, equivalent to probably 40 per cent more than that, retail. This factory level of output is about the same as in 1949. As the supply problem deepens, substitute materials less durable and less satisfactory will be rushed in to close the gap.

Toy makers, like manufacturers of other civilian goods, will have to nurse supplies to the best of their ability, to conserve and to reclaim materials.

NOT SO DUSTY—A real "behind the scenes in industry" item from Fort Madison, Ia., illustrates the kind of painstaking attention to detail that's needed in most successful businesses, but not always appreciated on the outside. In the W. A. Sheaffer Pen Company plant there an elaborate setup is used to reclaim about $100,000 worth of gold that otherwise would go down the drain or into the dust-bin annually. Although the entire plant is air-conditioned all day, a separate air-filtering operation goes on each night in all departments where gold is processed into fountain pen points and parts. It pulls floating gold dust out of the air, sifts it through cloth bags, and shakes it down. Also, all gold workers' aprons are laundered on the premises, the wash water is carefully settled out and the settlings smelted, and floor sweepings, rags, paper and old floor boards are burned in a metal-reclaiming furnace so that the gold content is saved.

THINGS TO COME—A gauge that checks the number of miles to a gallon that a car gets on gasoline. . . . A pavement-cutting machine that slices through concrete at three times the speed and less cost than existing methods. . . . A tiny spotlight to shine on telephone dials at night. . . . A crankcase oil tester that checks the oil in your car photo-electrically to warn when a change in lubrication is needed. . . . A spray gun that doesn't splatter paint on the user.

MIRACLE OF RUBBER—A brief 10 years ago this country could boast of only one commercial plant—operated by B. F. Goodrich—capable of producing American-made rubber. Then came Pearl Harbor and with it the slashing of our crude rubber supply lines to the Far East. Within two years a great new industry was born and was helping mightily to win the battle for freedom. Today this comparative newcomer to the list of American industrial products is superior to crude rubber in many applications and equal to it in all but two or three uses. Some of the plants were placed in mothballs after V-J day, but with the recent stepping up of our defense program, the government has ordered all of these facilities reopened. According to W. S. Richardson, president of B. F. Goodrich Chemical Company, approximately 5,000 men will be needed to help set these slanting plants back in production. Additional technical manpower will be required thereafter, he pointed out, in the scheduled production of man-made rubber of all types at the rate of 220,000 long tons early in 1951. The chemical company holds the World War II record for output of man-made rubber—368,577,000 pounds in 12 months.

HITS O' BUSINESS—The first strong hints that economic controls may be with us for some time to come are coming out of Washington. . . . An anti-inflation program, not for four years, but for the duration of the emer-

Dear Sir:
I am a collector of unusual epitaphs and would like very much to verify one which comes from Princess Anne County. It reads:

"Here lies the body of Henry Moore,

Who got in the way of a 44."

I wonder if a note in your letters to the editor column might reach a reader who could give me the right reading from the stone, together with the correct date and location?

With many thanks for your consideration of this request.

Sincerely,
CHARLES L. WALLIS,

VIRGINIA knows that when she plugs in the iron she'll get quick, steady heat to press the frills of her frock. It's the sort of service folks take for granted in VEPCOland.

To assure a dependable and adequate supply of electricity that will keep such convenience, safety and comfort at your fingertips requires an investment of millions of dollars in generating, transmission and distribution equipment. But, more important, it also takes the "know how" of 4500 skilled men and women who make up the VEPCO organization.

Under sound business management, these VEPCOVIANS have acquired the skills necessary to bring you good electric service. Many are your friends, neighbors, perhaps relatives. They spend their pay-checks in your town; they pay the same taxes you do; they support local civic programs. They're part and parcel of YOUR community.

The next time you flick a switch . . . remember you're calling on friends.

Teen Age Club News

Teen-Agers Are Champions

Speaking of competition, several days ago one of our older members dropped by and he was approached by a boy too young for membership to play a game of checkers. The young man, who has our club at heart and is always working to improve it, took this eight-year-old boy on in a game of checkers. The first game was played a little loose by the older fellow and in the end he was beaten. The second game a little tightness was followed, but he found himself beaten again. Then it went into real competition, and when the end of play arrived our member, who is almost nineteen, found himself beaten six times.

Many of our youngsters have a keen mind for games and if anyone reading this letter likes to play checkers, drop by and I will arrange a game for him with one of our youngsters about twelve years old. This lad is good at chess so when you come play him hard or you will go away in the same category as our nineteen-year-old member in the checker contest.

We are shaping things for a future play by our teen-age members. Later on we will give you, through this column, details and particulars.

Respectfully,
Wm. H. Fantone, Director

CREEDS High School News

FFA Sets Objectives

Objectives for the coming year have been set up by the Creeds Chapter of the Future Farmers of America under the leadership of S. B. Myers. They are:

1. Community service by assisting with community Christmas projects and contribute food and clothing to the needy; testing soil for farmers; improving poultry by culling; and to help beautify the school grounds.

2. Aiding supervised farming by increasing the ownership of productive projects; to provide for treating and testing project planting; and to conduct a project contest, offering suitable awards for outstanding accomplishments in farming.

3. To provide for cooperative activities by operating a "for sale" and "wanted" bulletin service; organizing a livestock improvement subsidiary; and providing for group membership in leading farm organizations.

4. To encourage leadership activities by assisting members to prepare for higher degrees; entering the State Chapter contest; sending members to state and district conventions and leadership schools; and visiting as many farms as possible to learn better display methods.

5. Improving scholarships by assisting members whose scholarship is low; devoting meetings to learning better methods of studying; maintaining an honor roll of members with high grades; and encouraging members to try for the National Honor Society.

6. To increase earnings and savings by making wire baskets; sponsoring a turkey raffle; and gathering and selling pine cones.

7. To conduct orderly meetings by setting up a definite schedule for regular meetings; providing refreshments at meetings; and developing a series of program features for the meetings.

8. To provide recreation and entertainment through the Father and Son Banquet; having a party jointly with the Future Homemakers of America; ball games with other chapters; sending members to state camp; and having a party at the end of the school year.

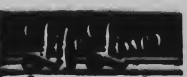

With these objectives ever in mind, the FFA looks forward to a very enjoyable and profitable year.

Allied Youth Activities

One of the favorite teen-age clubs at Creeds High School is the Allied Youth. Officers are: Rita Etheridge, president; Morris Laughan, vice president; Frances Mae Williams, secretary; and Sandra Williams, treasurer.

The purpose of the club is to establish the fact that young people can have good times and good fellowship without the use of alcohol. In Allied Youth, the young people endeavor to learn the facts concerning alcoholism and how to have fun without using it.

The club meets twice each month; one meeting is a recreational meeting and the other is educational. At the first meeting this year Robert Eades, Mid-Atlantic Secretary, was guest speaker.

Student Government Officers Nominated

The 1950 slate of nominations for the officers of the Oceana High School Student Government include the following:

For President: Edward Wright and Skippy Hull.

For Vice President: Walter Whitehouse and Julien McDaniels.

For Secretary: Mary Lou Shaeffer and Peggy Wood.

For Treasurer: Mary Lewis Peck and Lillian Belle Booker.

A period of campaigning is scheduled soon when the nominees will appear to the student body on their ideas concerning their duties if elected. After each nominee has presented his or her platform, a secret ballot election will take place at the school. With the right officers and the right council members, the Oceana Student Government could lead the school into making a name for itself—a name signifying honesty, high scholastic rating, high athletic rating, and high moral standards—thus making Oceana a superior high school.

The Student Government at Oceana High School is undergoing a change in some of its policies. After much careful study, E. E. Cox, chairman of the group of sponsors of this organization, presented to the student body an idea of how a student government could and should work. Mr. Cox said that it must be a student organization that trains young people in the democratic procedure and at the same time must improve the student body as a whole, the teachers in the school and even the community. He also suggested the method of election of officers, which is being followed. A committee composed of a representative from each home room in the school, and the sponsors of this organization get together and set up a set of standards by which to measure the competence of each suggested nominee.

The sophomore class of Oceana High School has elected as its officers for the year: Bentley Lackey, president; Ralph Williams, vice president; Ray Whitehead, secretary and treasurer; and Barbara Hitchens, student council representative.

Beta Club Activities

Junior Class Officers

Miss Lovings junior home room elected as its officers for the year: Royce Byrd, president; Julian McDaniels, vice president; Barbara Narryce, secretary; and Carole Ratley, treasurer.

Beta Club Activities

The Beta Club chapter of the Beta Club held its formal initiation of new members this week. Those initiates into the club at that time were: Ora Dail Hardy, Mary Bowden, Peggy Wood, Carole Ratley, Barbara Narryce, Arlene Myers, Christine McClannan, Allen Culverhouse, Lillian Belle Booker, Faye Lee Green, Helen Jones, Mary Lee Ward, and Warren Brinkley.

The Beta Club is a national scholastic organization recognizing students with superior grade averages and possessing certain characteristics peculiar to being a good citizen in the school and community.

The informal initiation was held Monday, November 6. All initiates came to school in costume, such as no make-up, high heels and bobby socks, odd shoes, sweaters on backwards, and the like. All prestige went to the old members during the day. They were bowed to by the initiates and were fed cookies and apples by them.

The Candlelight Service was held Wednesday before the entire student body. In this service the new members receive their pins and in doing so publicly pledge themselves to the high ideals for which the Beta Club stands.

Among the many activities to be carried on in the Beta Club this year is the Christmas Card selling campaign. The profits from this campaign will go towards sending a delegate to the State Beta Convention in Roanoke in March.

Mrs. Glidewell Guest Speaker at Garden Club Meeting

The Lynnhaven Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. William Bradt, London Bridge, on Tuesday, with Mrs. W. L. Taylor and Mrs. Henry Hunt serving as co-hostesses.

Mrs. A. E. Glidewell, president of the Norfolk Federation of Garden Clubs, was guest speaker. She discussed "Dried Arrangements," describing in detail materials used, line beauty, color harmony, relation of materials to construction, and displayed quantities of dried material, including lichens, and demonstrated their use in arrangements.

Fourteen members and three guests were present, including Mrs. Glidewell, Mrs. Bradt, Sr., of Lynnhaven, and Mrs. Halcombe, of Norfolk.

Members exhibited Thanksgiving centerpieces. Ribbons were awarded to Mrs. William Bradt, Mrs. E. W. Cake, Mrs. W. L. Taylor, Mrs. H. W. Ozlin, Mrs. Laura Turner, Mrs. Henry Hunt, and Mrs. W. E. Smith.

The National Education Association estimates that there are approximately 20,000 elementary school principals in the United States today.

School Children Warned by TAA To "Watch for Turning Cars"

To the rule "Look left and right before crossing the street" should be added "Watch for Turning Cars," according to the Tidewater Automobile Association of Virginia.

"In line with the need to teach children to watch for turning cars as they cross streets, a campaign will be carried on in the schools this month under the sponsorship of the club which is affiliated with the American Automobile Association," John B. Dey, vice president of the TAA, announced today.

"Posters and lesson guides will be provided for teachers in schools throughout this area as aids in impressing children with the importance of watching for turning cars," Mr. Dey said.

"The safest place to cross the street is at the corner, and yet nearly half of all pedestrian deaths in cities occur at intersections. This is mainly because people forget to watch for turning cars."

"Through the current campaign in local schools and all over the nation, children will be reminded this month of the importance of watching for turning cars as well as looking left and right before they cross the street," Mr. Dey added.

The poster, which will be used for the "Watch for Turning Cars" program, is one of the ten first-prize winners in the 6th National Safety Poster Contest, conducted by the AAA and affiliated Automobile Clubs, and was drawn by John M. Scott, Peabody High School, Pittsburgh, Pa.

According to Mrs. Jean Baldwin, district director, games, songs, home decorations, plays, floral arrangements all will be included on the program.

Mrs. C. M. Jones, Route 4, Norfolk, will demonstrate the making of Christmas wreaths, and Mrs. W. E. Kyle, Alantown, will demonstrate home decorations during the Yuletide season.

For mothers with small babies, provisions will be made for their care during the workshop period.

PRINCESS ANNE GARDEN CLUB TO MEET MONDAY

The Princess Anne Garden Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Hallie C. Old, on Monday, November 13, at 2:30 p.m. This is the regular November meeting of the organization.

Nansemond River Garden Club to Sponsor Lectures

The Nansemond River Garden Club will sponsor a Tidewater Area School and course of lectures on arrangements, horticulture and judging for amateur flower shows on November 14 and 15, at the Parish House, St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Suffolk, Virginia.

The course will be conducted by Mrs. Henry M. Kistner, of Long Island, N. Y. A certificate will be awarded to those completing the school. Examination is optional. Registration will be limited, but is open to the public. Everyone will go by number in order received.

Mrs. Kistner's lectures have been given in 46 states and in the gardens of Kew, London, England. She is returning to London in January where she will give fifteen lectures. Mrs. Kistner has lectured, judged and taught in Virginia many times. Her knowledge of the state, both historically and horticulturally, together with her use of native materials, make her arrangements not only beautiful but appropriate. Mrs. Kistner will create many of these interesting arrangements during the four sessions each day.

Local gardeners wishing to attend this course are invited to send a registration fee of $6.00 to Mrs. Paul Everett, 234 Pinner Street, Suffolk, Virginia.

Local Dealer Says Home Repair Work To Set New Record

The volume of home repair and improvement probably will set a new record locally during the next year, judging by numerous inquiries received from home owners, according to R. B. Taylor, local building materials dealer and member of the Public Affairs Committee of the National Retail Lumber Dealers Association.

"Although the Federal government is attempting to reduce new housing construction sharply to conserve materials for the rearmament program, the only emergency restriction on residential maintenance and modernization is the requirement that in most cases owners must make a down payment of at least 10 per cent and must pay the balance within 30 months," Mr. Taylor said.

"Federal officials obviously realize that the existing supply of homes in Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County, and elsewhere must be kept in good livable condition if housing standards are to be maintained during the period when new residential building is being curtailed.

"Some types of plumbing and electrical work may be delayed by plans to reduce the supply of strategic metals available for non-defense use, but there should be plenty of other materials, such as lumber, roofing, flooring, wall-board, plaster, brick, insulation, and siding, to permit a large amount of repair and modernization work to go ahead here in the coming months.

"Local home owners who inquire about improvements to their dwellings are showing special interest in repainting or replacing roofs, installing insulation, finishing extra rooms, building or enlarging garages, and remodeling.

The condition of Mrs. Nell Lee, who was seriously burned in an accident last week-end, is reported as improved. Mrs. Lee was hospitalized as a result of a fire which broke out in a home where she was spending the evening. She is at the Virginia Beach Hospital.

TO SEE OURSELVES AS OTHERS SEE US

(The News has made it a practice to reprint editorials from other newspapers in the State that reflect on the No. 1 problems of our community. Below we print an editorial comment that appeared in the Richmond (Va.) Times-Dispatch on Thursday, November 16. The editorial came about evidently as a result of the impression made upon the editor of the paper by a letter in their Voice of the People Column from J. Wilcox Dunn, of Virginia Beach.)

CRIME AT VIRGINIA BEACH

There is no evidence to indicate that the majority of Virginia Beach citizens are concerned over the widespread gambling that reportedly goes on in that resort community. J. Wilcox Dunn, a prominent and responsible citizen there, who writes us in today's Voice of the People, and a minority of other Virginia Beach residents see the grave dangers involved in allowing conditions such as he describes to exist. But we are inclined to believe there is a good deal of truth in the comment made by the town's chief of police who resigned in 1938 after a grand jury charged him with failing to prosecute gamblers. He declared that there had been open gambling at "the Beach" for several years and that "its existence was well known to almost all of the residents, who regarded the conditions as beneficial to the resort."

The real menace to Virginia Beach is not that vacation visitors put nickels, dimes or quarters into slot machines, or that they engage in other forms of gambling which may be in operation. Experience has shown that where organized gambling exists on a large scale, racketeers move in, bringing with them other forms of vice and crime. Too often these conditions ultimately lead to corruption in the local government and a generally unhealthy community atmosphere.

In his letter, Mr. Dunn infers that Virginia Beach authorities, through inability or degradation of duty, have failed to correct undesirable conditions at "the Beach," and he calls for the Governor ("the freeman-in-chief") to "swing into action." The question of how far the Commonwealth should go in enforcing State laws at Virginia Beach has been argued for years. On several occasions the State has stepped in.

In 1931 the late Governor Pollard concluded that the local authorities were not attempting to enforce the law, so he sent State officers there to put down what he called an "open rebellion" against the Commonwealth. "I intend to break up gambling at Virginia Beach if it is the last thing I do," declared Governor Pollard.

The Commonwealth's most recent concerted attack on gambling at the beach was in 1946, when Governor Tuck sent State police there to assist the local authorities. He said then that anybody who thought the effort was "just another flash in the pan which will die down quickly" was sorely mistaken, and that "the heat is going to stay on until the last of the slot machines are driven out."

If they were driven out, they apparently went back. Grand juries since that time have indicted scores of persons on gambling charges, many of the indictments involving slot machines that reportedly paid off in money. Only a relatively few of the persons indicted were found guilty. During one trial in the Princess Anne Circuit Court last month, a citizen testifying for the prosecution was asked why he had not previously reported gambling to the police. "To have reported it to the police department would have been a waste of time," he replied. "It is foolish for me to jeopardize my life, limb and property by going down there and making a fool of myself when this court can't back you up."

A few months ago the Virginia Beach News carried a black-bordered "obituary" on its editorial page announcing the death of "all the good and fine things that were once Virginia Beach" and of the "decadent, the God-fearing people who were its citizens." The News may have been taking an unduly alarming view of the situation but if conditions even approach those as described by this newspaper and by Mr. Dunn, Virginia Beach is apt to find itself gradually alienating a large body of people who have been going there for sunshine and surf bathing, and who do not relish spending their vacations in a vice-ridden community.

—The Richmond (Va.) Times-Dispatch

LOOKING BACK

TWENTY-ONE YEARS AGO—NOVEMBER 15, 1923

The November 15, 1923, issue of the Virginia Beach News told of the unveiling of a marker at Kempsville commemorating the 175th anniversary of the skirmish at Kempsville. Exercises were held in front of the home of Dr. R. E. Whitehead, which served as the headquarters for Lord Dunmore during the period. The Old Dominion Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution sponsored the marker.

The Rotary Club was observing Education Week and celebrating it particularly with Education Night, when Miss Mary E. Kelham, principal of the Virginia Beach school, was the principal speaker. Rotary President Paul Jones urged all Rotarians to attend.

The Jefferson Literary Society of Creeds met with the following program scheduled: Essay, Mildred Elberidge; Poem, Maudie Taylor; Vera Menden; Jonathan Vaughn; Reading, Katherine Williams.

The Oceana girls basketball team was the object of high praise, the News reported. "Much good material is shown," the paper declared. "In Dixie Doyle, Margaret Bailey, Ella Newsum, and Elizabeth Meredith, forwards; Ruth Mills, Bonnie Rogers, Steacie White, Virginia Harris, Myrtle Caffee, and Anne Brock, guards; Ruby Bonney and Mabel Allen, as jumpers; and Alice Smith, Shirley Reid, and Mary Parker, as side centers."

John Pardon Mills Dies Monday

John Pardon Mills, 72, operator of the general merchandise store at Lynnhaven for 25 years, died at the Virginia Beach Hospital Monday morning after a brief illness.

He was a member of the Lynnhaven Presbyterian Church, which he had served as a deacon, and Virginia Beach Lodge No. 274, A. F. and A. M.

He was the son of Egbert F. and Mrs. Sarah Whitaker Mills. Besides his wife, Mrs. Maude V. Brooker Mills, he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Beverly G. Sykes; two sons, J. P. Mills, Jr., of Richmond, and Paul F. Mills, of Binghamton, N. Y.; one brother, Stephen Mills, of Binghamton, and nine grandchildren.

The body was taken from the Sykes Funeral Home to the Lynnhaven Presbyterian Church for funeral services on Wednesday. Burial was in Riverside Memorial Park.

Dr. Corpening Urges Club to Support Diabetic Campaign

The November meeting of the Business and Professional Woman's Club of Princess Anne County was held at the Community House on Monday, with Mrs. Rosa Lee Mergler presiding.

Dr. Cora Z. Corpening, chairman of the Diabetic Control Campaign in the county, spoke on diabetes, giving its medical history and telling of the great strides being made toward diagnosis and control of this disease. She stressed the great importance of early diagnosis, and urged participation in the campaign for the control of diabetes through the free clinics in Princess Anne County operating during the Diabetic Detection Campaign.

Mrs. Barbara Kelly, membership chairman, announced the names of eleven women who have been invited to join the club.

A large number of boxes containing clothing and gifts for the poor children of Italy were assembled and given Miss Pearl Duty, local international relations chairman, to be sent to Mrs. Seward of the Suffolk club. They will be sent to the BPW Club in Italy for distribution.

The annual roll call of the American Red Cross was held by the Princess Anne chapter at a meeting at the Oceana School. Chairmen of the roll call were—Virginia Beach: Mrs. W. P. Ashburn; Seaback: Mrs. Mary Messick; London Bridge: Mrs. B. F. Owen; Oceana: Mrs. J. C. Cornick; Lynnhaven: Mrs. J. W. Cake; Rosemont: Mrs. Eugene Butt; Creeds: Mrs. R. T. BOOK REVIEW

(HIMSELF AND I, by Mary Sinton Letich; Fine Editions Press, publishers.)

A fine adventure story, a story of the sea that is autobiographical, is "Himself and I," by Mary Sinton Letich, released this week by the Fine Editions Press of New York.

Mrs. Letich tells the story of Scotch Captain John David Letich, who learned the ways of the sea in the old full-rigger days of the sailing vessel, and of herself; of the fantastic coincidence of their meeting in 1906 when Captain Letich was on his northward run from Buenos Aires to New York. Sighting another ship flying a distress signal, Captain Letich turned from his course to offer assistance but the master of the second schooner believed he could proceed to port without help. As Captain Letich turned his ship back on its course, he spotted a girl on the deck, secured to the weather shrouds. He waved to her, and she to him, both thinking never to see the other again. But fate had designed otherwise, and the two came together again, and were married.

The story takes the Captain and the author through their childhood and youth—himself through the trials of apprenticeship at sea; through the dangers of disease and the fury of storms at sea; she through the whirl of a New York girlhood in the Gay '90's—and follows with their adventurous life together, for she joined him in his journeys on the seven seas.

The story takes them to the time they leave the Ripley, of which Captain Letich had for many years been master, for a life ashore.

A noted Virginia poet, Mrs. Letich has published four books of verse: "The Wagon and the Star," "The Unseen Morrow," "Spider Architect," and "From Invisible Mountains." She has been president of the Poetry Society.

Miss Hill Speaks At Meeting of P. A. Garden Club

At the November meeting of the Princess Anne Garden Club, held Monday at the home of Mrs. Hattie C. Olds, Lynnhaven, two members were appointed to appear before the board of supervisors at its regular meeting November 27 to ask for regular garbage collections in the Seaback and Atlantic Park areas.

The group heard Miss Evelyn Collins Hill discuss rose culture. Miss Hill suggested placing roses in muddy water before planting. Hybrid teas, she told the club members, should be pruned in March; that Floribunda need no extensive pruning; and that hybrid climbers should be pruned only by cutting old blooms and Interests Mrs. W. M. Thompson exhibited examples of chrysanthemums, grown at her home on Holly Road, similar to those with which she won blue ribbons at the Hyacinth, Washington, flower show. They were the White Oconia, a yellow Barbara Phillips, and Miss de Polier. Mrs. Thompson's flowers were exceptional in color, form and size, with some as large as butter plates.

The Misses Hill also exhibited roses and camellias, including the red rose, Nocturne, a bluish pink rose, Warwaver, and Dixie and Apple Blossom camellias.

FEAST not FAMINE

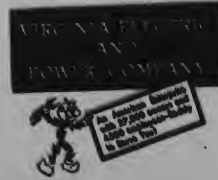

... when free men work for themselves

WHEN THE PILGRIMS celebrated the first Thanksgiving in 1623, they were thankful for their deliverance from the near-starvation conditions of 1621 and 1622. For during those struggling years, the colonial government controlled the land and what the people produced. There was never enough food, and the family of the man who worked hard fared as poorly as the family of the man who was unwilling or unable to work.

But in 1623, Governor Bradford and his chiefs admitted they were not "wiser than God," and that they could not "plan for everybody." Each family began to own and use its own plot of land. Shirkers became workers—production increased—morale was strengthened—and there was plenty for all.

That is the essence of free enterprise. When a man works for himself—with his hands, time, talent, or money—knowing that the reward will be his... he produces plenty, and everybody benefits.

Let us give Thanks for our American heritage when we count our blessings this Thanksgiving.

"Sweet Sally Brown" to be Staged
Last Monday a group of teen-agers girls met with Miss Carol Simpson to discuss the production of a three-act play, "Sweet Sally Brown." The play calls for twelve girls. Although parts have not been assigned, rehearsals will begin as soon as the play books arrive. The plot of the play is very interesting and it is our hope that it may be given sometime near Christmas. We hope to have a large crowd attend our production. You will hear more about the play in the weeks to come.

Turkey Dinner Saturday Night
The Teen-Age Club of Virginia's Beach held a Turkey Dinner at the Community House Saturday night, November 11. We were happy to get a six-piece band made up of boys attending the William and Mary Extension in Norfolk, known as the "Count Rosini Quartette." The musical instruments used were a piano, saxophone, clarinet, bass violin, trumpet and drums. The names of the boys playing are Wright Williams, Jack Hood, Jimmie Dimmer, Marcason Anson, Waverly Ward, manager, and Louis Carroll.

Anyone interested in securing this band may contact Waverly Ward at William and Mary Extension, Norfolk. We hope to get this band again for a dance in December when we hope to have 150 teen-agers present.

Teen-Age Gossip
What happened Monday night that seems to be the talk of the Beach? Anyone know?

Shelly Heyward, we enjoyed your visit from Norfolk, and we hope Patsy will bring you back soon.

What sudden interest has Wilbur Snow found in Norfolk every Saturday night?

Who was Catherine's mysterious telephone call from Tuesday night? Could it be a new love? Vernon, when are you going to bring some more of those William and Mary boys down again? The girls are still talking about them.

We were sure glad to see so many turn out for the dance—and so dressed up, too!

We're glad our boys could get home for a visit, and we're glad to see "Casanova" Ridge hasn't changed any.

It must be love! We understand Gretchen and Pat were seen together again. What about it, Gretchen?

Who has Skitty got a date with tonight? Could it be Ambler? Everyone seems to be looking forward to the dance after the game tonight. Do hope the Oceana boys don't go too crazy over the Kempsville girls!

Lt. H. S. Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Myers, of 316 25th Street, Virginia Beach, is one of more than 50 Air Force officers reporting for a ten-week course in instrument flying procedure at Tyndall Air Force Base, Panama City, Fla.

Instruction in the academic phase of the course concerns construction and operation of flight instruments, navigation under instrument conditions (when the weather interferes with vision), weather observation, reporting and forecasting, and the psychology of teaching. (Most of the student officers return to their home bases to become instructors in instrument flying.)

In the flight phase students learn to fly under adverse weather conditions, using flight instruments as guides. Study and usage of radio range, both automatic and manual radio compass, instrument approach to landing fields, and cross-country flights using instruments are all included in the course.

High School News

SAFETY CAMPAIGN

At the request of C. F. Joyner, Jr., Commissioner of the Division of Motor Vehicles, the Creeds High School Student Council is serving as the Highway Safety Team for the campaign which began November 14 and will end November 22 during which time each member of the team will call a certain quota of telephone numbers requesting the person answering the telephone to drive carefully over the Thanksgiving holidays. A request will also be made at the same time to spread the news as far as possible to the end that everybody will know of the Governor's Safety Campaign.

The Division of Motor Vehicles will tabulate the calls of all the teams to determine what effect this state-wide highway safety campaign has had on the reduction of the number of highway accidents during the holidays.

CREEDS DEFEATS SUFFOLK
J. V.'s 13-6

The Creeds Indians defeated the Suffolk J. V.'s in a thrilling contest played at Peanut Park, Suffolk, November 8.

Creeds successfully came from behind to win after a first quarter fumble which led to the lone Suffolk score. The try for the extra point was blocked.

Creeds scored late in the second quarter after a 30-yard pass from Otto Halstead, Creeds fullback, to Stanley Williamson, left halfback, gave Creeds a first down on the Suffolk 2. Halstead received a pickout and raced around left end to score. The try for the extra point was not successful.

The third and fourth quarters were played on even terms, until the last few minutes of the game. With only minutes remaining in the game Otto Halstead raced around left end behind vicious blocking 80 yards for the winning touchdown. A pass from Halstead to Eugene Fleming, right end, was good for the extra point.

The game was marred by numerous fumbles by both teams.

The lumber industry has, recently perfected a new soil improver, tentatively called "Feraulin," which is essentially sawdust, treated by simple chemical means. Preliminary tests of the soil improver on vegetable plants indicate higher rates of seed germination, earlier ripening and increased weights.

Twice as many!

The number of telephones serving farm and rural families has doubled in the areas served by this Company since the war. $25,000,000 has been spent in about four years' time to add telephone pole lines and central office equipment to serve rural communities. Many millions will be spent this year to provide more telephones in rural areas.

Playing "house" plugs a party line

It's a good idea to explain to your children about the telephone's usefulness, and why it's best not to play with it. They may cause your line to send a "busy" signal—and if it is a party line, tie up your neighbors' service, too.

"I knew I was talking to a friend..."

"Early one morning, I became suddenly ill. I was alone and frightened. But when I picked up the telephone, I knew I was talking to a friend. The operator calmed me, and soon had the doctor on his way." We receive many letters like this. They show that people appreciate the spirit of service telephone men and women carry into their work.

The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia.

Council Hears Recommendation Town Join Nearby Counties and Cities in Regional Defense Setup

Mutual Aid in Case Of Attack on Area Aim of Proposal

Virginia Beach will join in a regional council to set up a mutual aid setup for regional defense in the event of an air or atomic attack.

The move was made by the Virginia Beach Town Council Monday night on the recommendation of Robert E. Johnson, coordinator for Virginia Beach for defense.

The state-wide program is still in the planning stages, Mr. Johnson explained, although it is being speeded as rapidly as possible. A meeting was held on November 9 for this section, which included Norfolk, Portsmouth and Princess Anne counties, and the cities of Suffolk, Norfolk, Portsmouth and Virginia Beach, and further meetings will follow as soon as all municipalities approve the setup.

Should an attack be made on the area, a possibility that is increased by the strategic military and naval installations in the section, mutual aid will be needed, and only an organization set up on an area basis could cope with the situation, Chief Johnson said. Contributions in the way of fire fighting apparatus, trained personnel, supplies, and all the other necessities, must be known and coordinated in order that any stricken area might be served rapidly and without confusion.

The plan would call for certain leaders to be authorized to take over responsibilities in the event of a disastrous atomic strike, as well as the training of many volunteer workers.

General Hunting Season Open; Game Plentiful

Ducking Prospects Exceptionally Good Says Game Warden

Virginia's 1950 hunting season went into full swing Monday, November 20, when the wrasse game, off state-wide on deer, bear, turkey, quail, grouse, rabbits and squirrels in all counties that are open to hunting any given season of game. The wild fowl season opens next Monday, November 27. According to T. J. Quinn, executive director of the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries, the average hunter's chances of returning home with something in the game bag are excellent this year.

Local sportsmen say luck with ducks will depend on the weather. Feeding conditions have been reported as highly favorable, with plenty for all comers.

Nesting conditions for the upland game birds ranged from fair to good through the nesting season, with the result that more coveys should rise before the nighthawk's guns this year.

Deer prospects are very good throughout the state, with hunters in the Tidewater counties generally finding more liberal regulations as to length of season than their brother hunters west of the blue ridge.

The squirrel hunters should find conditions to their liking this year, for with the nut trees of the state bearing a bumper crop, the gray-coated tree dwellers should be in top notch condition.

The Game Commission is making a special plea to the hunters this year to try and be careful with live when they are in the woods and fields. Carcasses with matches or cigarette butts can ruin the hunting prospects in a region for years to come.

Galilee Men's Club Plans Congregational Supper November 28

The Men's Club of Galilee Episcopal Church will entertain their 1951 Every Member Supper with a congregational supper at The Haven (New Parish House) at 7 p.m., Tuesday, November 28.

The fried chicken and seafood supper will be served by a committee of the Galilee Women's Auxiliary under the chairmanship of Miss Florence Ledbetter. Cost will be $1 a plate.

Following supper, a congregational meeting will be held in the church. The speaker for the evening will be the Rev. Beverly Tucker White, rector of St. Andrew's, Norfolk, and chairman of the Department of Promotion for the Diocese of Southern Virginia. He will talk on the church's program in the parish, the diocese, the nation and the world. The Rev. Mr. White is a grandson of Bishop Beverley Dandridge Tucker, from whom Galilee Church gets its auxiliary title.

Election of the 1951 vestry will also take place at this meeting. Ballots are being prepared so that this may be done with the greatest dispatch, and announcement of the new members of the vestry will be made Sunday, December 3.

Potato Production Acreage Guides Set by PMA for '51

22 Pct. Reduction Suggested; Price Support Dropped

The planting of 43,000 acres of potatoes is suggested as a guide to help Virginia farmers make their plans for 1951, R. W. Lane, chairman of the Princess Anne County Production and Marketing Administration Committee, said this week.

"This acreage guide is intended to help farmers keep their potato production next year in line with probable demand," Mr. Lane explained. "The guide is entirely voluntary, and differs from programs in recent years when compliance with acreage allotments was a condition of price support."

Congress put an end to potato price supports effective with the 1951 crop. They have been in operation every year since 1943.

The guide of 43,000 acres for Virginia is the suggested production for the entire state in 1951 and represents a reduction of about 22 per cent from the 54,000 acres planted in potatoes this year. The 1950 acreage allotment in the Eastern Virginia commercial area was 52,700, but growers substantially overplanted the allotment. The suggested acreage, the chairman said, is based on the volume of commercial marketing, plus farm use in recent post-war years; it does not include that part of the state's production which the government bought under price support programs.

The national 1951 potato production guide is set at 1,540,000 acres, a reduction of 15 per cent from the 1950 planted acreage, and is expected to yield 338,000,000 bushels. That is based on an average yield of about 315 bushels per acre. Virginia's average yield is 173 bushels, but the national average is brought up by heavy yields in such states as Maine, 450; California, 420; and Idaho, 277 bushels per acre.

The suggested 1951 acreage for other states normally competing with Virginia is likewise below the 1950 planted acreage. In North Carolina the guide is a reduction of 22 per cent; in Maryland 16; New Jersey 27; and early California 33 per cent under last year's plantings.

Annual Joy Fund To Be Organized Friday, December 1

An organization meeting for the annual Joy Fund will be held at the Presbyterian Church Friday evening, December 1, at 8 o'clock. Workers interested in assisting are asked to attend.

According to John Bradburn, who last year handled publicity for the movement, 1950 will see more cases needing assistance and more money to accomplish its aims.

Bayne, who will see that they are picked up, or drop them off at the fire station. The firemen will reconduct the toys before they are distributed.

Collections of money for food and clothing for the needy will be accepted at the Virginia Beach News office and the Virginia Beach Sun office.

Officers for the 1950 Joy Fund will be named at the December 1 meeting. Mr. Bradburn said, and volunteers to assist are urged to be present. A goal to work for will also be set.

Christmas Seals Heralders of Hope For TB Sufferers

Mrs. W. R. Ashburn, County Chairman, Says Goal Is $5,800

More than 8,500 residents of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County are receiving sheets of Christmas Seals this week, and with each sheet goes a return envelope, a convenient way for the return of a check or money in payment for the seals, according to Mrs. W. R. Ashburn, county chairman of the Seal Sale. The sale officially opened November 20 all over the nation.

Inscribed on the lower left corner of the Seal is the red double-barred cross, international symbol of the campaign against tuberculosis and registered insignia of the National Tuberculosis Association, with which the Princess Anne Tuberculosis Association is affiliated. The 1950 Seal features three little angels on a red and green background.

The designer of the 1950 Seal is Andre Dugo, internationally noted artist and, according to Mrs. Ashburn, artist Dugo's simple explanation of his selection of the Seal picture is that he loves children. The three angel children are characteristic and could represent a trio of "small citizens" in any American community, according to the local chairman.

The 1950 Christmas Seal Sale in Princess Anne County, part of the 44th annual Christmas Seal Sale conducted throughout the nation to raise funds to fight tuberculosis, will continue until Christmas.

Princess Anne County's quota is $5,800, the minimum needed to carry out the 1951 tuberculosis prevention and control program of the Tuberculosis Association.

Fishing from Jetty And Sunken Boats To Be Prohibited

The Virginia Beach-Town Council on Monday night adopted an ordinance to prohibit trespass or fishing from the jetty or the sunken boats at the foot of 7th Street, and will consider broadening the ordinance to include fishing or surf casting from the boardwalk and the beach, probably during the tourist months from May to October. The latter will be the subject of study by the town manager, W. Russell Hatchett, who will report his findings at the next meeting of the body.

The councilmen heard Robert E. Johnson, chief of police, describe the presence of fishermen on a crowded boardwalk or beach as very dangerous. The town, according to councilmen, would be "morally" liable in the event of an accident if it were not actually "legally" liable.

A purchasing agent was appointed to handle the purchasing of the town, and for bids, receive bids, and generally put the purchase of services and goods on a "businesslike basis." The new agent will be Thomas Groshen, now license clerk and collector of delinquent taxes. His new duties will be in addition to his present ones, and he will receive 600 compensation monthly in addition to his present salary.

Referred to the town manager for study will be a recommendation offered by Frank V. Atkinson, real estate dealer, which would require building time and front elevations in building permits granted within the town borders.

The proposal would require that no residences would be built closer to the building line than the nearest structure, and would require that front elevations of the house meet certain requirements in order that unattractive facades would not front on the street.

It was the opinion of council members that the recommendation would not be possible unless an ordinance were passed, since it could not legally be left to the discretion of the town engineer, who passes on building permits, to determine building lines or front elevations arbitrarily.

However, through ordinances and recommendations from the Zoning Board, it would be possible to regulate and improve the situation, according to the councilmen.

Beach Repairs

Temporary repairs to the damaged boardwalk will be carried out to make the structure "presentable" at a cost estimated at $3,000. The work would include tying in the sheet steel piling with iron rods and replacing underfill. The move was made at the recommendation of Mr. Hatchett who added that "it would be a shame to let the winter storms" do further damage. Backfill would be brought in to fill eroded holes back of the structure from time to time during the winter months.

In connection with the boardwalk discussion, Mr. Hatchett read a copy of a letter from Harry B. Davis, delegate from Princess Anne County to the General Assembly, written to Governor Battle in which he (Mr. Davis) urged the Governor to consider pushing the $40,000 conditional appropriation made to combat beach erosion in this area. The appropriation, which was made unconditionally in 1948, was put on the conditional list by the 1950 Assembly, and was jeopardized by the Byrd Bill which would throw out many of the conditional appropriations made. Mr. Davis described the situation as "desperate" and said that the State would lose revenue if a remedy is not found.

THANKSGIVING—1950

The season of Thanksgiving is upon us once again—the season set aside by our forebearers to thank God for the harvests and the good things that had come to them, to thank Him for their safety, and for the food and shelter to keep them through the winter.

To Americans, that season, a time of festivity and rejoicing as well as thankfulness, has taken on new meaning in the troubled world of today.

We give thanks for the material things that are ours as a national standard—the better housing and the better living, the automobiles, and the television, and the radios—all those things, yes! But also we must give thanks for our national heritage of freedom and democracy.

Let us give thanks that as a nation we are free to say, and do, and think as we will. Let us give thanks that in these troubled times it is in our power to lead the peoples of the world out of the darkness of dictatorship and tyranny into the light of a free world where man may live his life without fear and want. Let us, also, give thanks that there is a glimmer of hope that peace will come.

It is in our power to give aid and succor to the suffering peoples of the world, to help the needy and less fortunate. It is in our power to give strength and meaning to the United Nations of the world—a world striving toward peace.

It is in our power to lift the downtrodden of our own nation and of other lands to a better life.

Let us, too, give thanks for all of that.

LOOKING BACK

TWENTY-ONE YEARS AGO — NOVEMBER 22, 1929

A Thanksgiving Proclamation, signed by President Hoover, declared a holiday November 28 and asked that all of the nation give thanks. That was one of the headlines in the Virginia Beach News of November 22, 1929.

Princess Anne County's 4-H Club's second annual Achievement Day was slated to be held November 23, and Arthur Lloyd Gresham was proclaimed the Champion Garden Club member of the 4-H Clubs of the county. Young Gresham was the only winner announced in advance of the program.

The News announced that it was beginning an Advice to the Lovelorn Column to help the loveless swains and lassies in the county with their problems of the heart. The person who was taking over this column was to write under the column heading "Lovelorn's Troubles," and signed himself (or herself) Bubbles!

In Princess Anne, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Crutchlow gave a birthday party honoring Miss Margaret Crutchlow and Herman Smith. Those calling were: Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Woodhouse, Mrs. Nosay, Misses Vivian and Virginia Wideman, Ruby Dyer, Elizabeth Wafford, Patsie Butt, Olivia Eaton, Geneva Barnes, Odie and Ruby Watt, India Bonney, Mary Butt, Mrs. Harry Easterlin, Charlie Edward Upton, Marvin Moore, Lloyd Davis, Alfred Davidson, Herman, Morace and Russell Crutchlow, and Shepherd Martin.

Those expecting to attend the State Parent-Teacher Association meeting in Richmond were: Mrs. W. A. Coleman, Mrs. Frank Booker and Mrs. R. G. Barr, of Virginia Beach; and Mrs. W. A. Cox, and Mrs. W. F. Brock, of Oceana.

In World War II, Navy submarines sank two-thirds of Japan's merchant fleet and one-third of the Japanese navy.

Whistling is not prohibited in the U. S. Navy although not practiced since it may be confused with the Bo's pipe.

H. S. Graduates Eligible for Navy Training Program

Chief Petty Officer Julian A. Forbes, Navy Recruiter for Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County, announced this week the time limit for local high school graduates and seniors to apply for the Navy's college training program, the NROTC, is fast drawing to a close. November 18, to be exact, is the deadline for qualified young men, interested in this program, to make their applications.

Chief Forbes stated that all applications for the NROTC must reach the Naval Examining Section, Educational Testing Service, Box 709, Princeton, N. J., prior to midnight of November 18, 1950, in order to compete in this exam to be given at Cranby High School, in Norfolk, December 9. Fifty-two colleges and universities throughout the nation participate in the NROTC program, including the University of Virginia, at Charlottesville, the University of North Carolina, and Duke University. Any young man that has graduated from high school, or is in his senior year, between the ages of 17 and 21, and can pass the necessary mental, moral, and physical examination, is eligible to apply for this training. NROTC affords qualified persons the opportunity to obtain a college education with all expenses paid by the government, and an excellent chance to qualify for an officer's commission in the Navy or Marine Corps after graduation.

Men found qualified and accepted for this training may study courses in any chosen field, with the exception of medicine, dentistry, veterinary medicine, pharmacy, theology, music and art. All the fields of engineering are open.

Qualified persons may obtain all information and the necessary applications by writing or calling the Navy Recruiting Station, Room 405, in the Norfolk Post Office Building.

Television Manufacturers Say Color Telecasting Not Ready

By Robert C. Hall

As the present time WCBM-TV in New York is the only station in the country equipped to originate color telecasts. CBS itself has announced that it was telecasting only 50 hours a week of color by mid-December. Nearly all of this will be on "fringe" time—that is, early day or late night hours that will not interfere with the regular black-and-white broadcasts. These color telecasts will be on a sustaining basis for a long time to come, because advertisers will not sponsor color programs until the requisite audience to make their advertising pay has been built up—and it is likely that such an audience will develop very slowly because of the character of sustaining colorcasts and the hours they will be on the air.

The Future of Black-and-White Broadcasting

For years to come the great programs on television will continue to be telecast in black-and-white. Color television, when and as it develops, will constitute a supplementary broadcasting service, rather than a replacement of black-and-white. Thus your present and future black-and-white receivers will continue to provide the highly enjoyable entertainment of present and future black-and-white telecasts, just as most movies that you see are still in black-and-white, despite the fact that we have had color movies for a quarter of a century.

Definition of Terms "Adapter" and "Converter"

TV set manufacturers are beginning to distinguish between these two terms. "Adapter" is the term given to an attachment to current television receivers that will permit reception of CBS color telecasts in black-and-white. "Converter" is the term used for an attachment that will permit present sets to receive CBS color telecasts in color.

Manufacturers are proceeding rapidly in the development of color converters because they feel that if and when color telecasting becomes a factor in your community, can be received at convenient hours, and is interesting, the public will want the programs in color rather than in black-and-white by means of an adapter. However, this appears still to be a long way off.

Should You Buy Present Black-and-White or Wait for Color?

If you purchase a black-and-white television receiver now, you are assured of lowest cost reception of the most popular programs that will continue in black and white for years to come. You may buy a color converter if and when color telecasting reaches the point where you decide you want one, but you won't need to do this until such time nor until you are pretty sure that the development of some other color system will not render the converter itself obsolete. Color television will not outmode current receivers during their normal lifetime, and you may buy now in confidence and enjoy the pleasures that television will bring to your household.

In contrast to the recent 5,200 mile submerged voyage of the snorkel-typed submarine, USS Pickard, which traveled under water for 565 hours in her trip from Hong Kong to Pearl Harbor, the Navy's first submarine, Holland, was capable of cruising submerged about 40 miles.

Virginia Jaycees Sponsoring Tree Planting Project

The Virginia Junior Chamber of Commerce will again sponsor the tree planting project, which was originated in Norfolk and became a national program the past year, according to an announcement made by Robert N. Hurt, state president. The goal is set for the purchase of 400,000 seedlings.

In describing the purposes behind the project, Mr. Hurt stated that such a program yields tangible results—a living contribution to help the welfare of all people through wise use of non-productive forest lands. The cooperative project includes such agencies as the Virginia Forest Service, which is headed by George W. Dean, state forester, and Tom V. Downing, assistant state supervisor of vocational agriculture, who supervises the forestry activities of the Future Farmers of America. Seedlings are purchased by the local chapters with supervision coming from the state forest service and the planting by Jaycees and Future Farmers.

Heading the state's program are two Norfolkians: L. S. Parsons, Jr., vice president of the State Junior Chamber, and Robert N. Hoskins, industrial forester of the Seaboard Air Line Railroad, who is again serving as state chairman and national vice chairman in charge of conservation for the second consecutive year. Last year's program resulted in the planting of 268,000 seedlings.

To date two Jaycee chapters have subscribed to 70,000 seedlings for this year. Bill Borum, Norfolk's president, has advised that in addition to the purchase of 50,000 seedlings they hope to double this amount prior to the forthcoming planting season.

President Hurt commented that should other chapters come through as hoped for the goal of 400,000 seedlings for planting in Virginia should easily be reached.

Approximately 2,100 Naval Air Reserve recruits have received eight weeks of indoctrination training at Naval Air Stations throughout the country during the summer.

Mrs. Clate Named Official Hostess for Welcome Wagon, Inc.

Mrs. Kenneth H. Clate, of 539 Maryland Avenue, Virginia Beach, returned home recently from New York City, where she completed a course of instruction preparing her to represent Welcome Wagon, Inc., as hostess in Virginia Beach.

Welcome Wagon Service was originated in 1926 by Thomas W. Briggs, a newspaperman of Memphis, Tenn., who adapted a custom of pioneer days to present day conditions. A student of American history, Mr. Briggs was stirred by the romantic tales of the rugged men who blazed their trails to a new land across the western plains. As the covered wagons wended their way toward the frontier, homesteaders from scattered settlements along the way met them in "welcome wagons" with food and water to refresh the travelers at the end of their long journey and extended a hand of welcome.

That gracious tradition lives on today in Welcome Wagon. A modern version of "old-fashioned" hospitality and goodwill is extended to the families of a community at the crucial moments of their lives. Daily in 1949, throughout the United States and Canada—in more than 900 towns and cities—over 3500 Welcome Wagon hostesses carried the good wishes of civic and business organizations to mothers of new babies, teen-age girls, newly engaged girls, families moving from one home to another within the community, and newcomers to the city.

The Welcome Wagon hostess knows her town, and wherever she goes she carries a word of its outstanding features—its libraries, churches, newspapers, parks, museums, youth groups, welfare associations, banks, shops, radio stations, restaurants, schools, and services.

Club Plans Xmas Community Sing At Beach Hospital

The Station and Professional Women's Club of Princess Anne County will sponsor a community sing at the Virginia Beach Hospital during the Christmas holidays.

The idea was suggested by Miss Harold Alford, superintendent of nurses at the hospital. A committee has been appointed to form the "sing" and has asked that any person interested and willing to join in the festivities get in touch with Mrs. Mark White, telephone 1296-W, as early as possible.

New Hunting Law Digest Available

The Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries has just gotten out its annual supply of the new 1939-40 Hunting Law Digest, 1. T. Quinn, executive director, announced.

Supplies of the Digest are available from the Richmond office of the Game Commission, from the county game wardens and conservation officers, and county clerks. The November issue of the Commission's monthly publication "Virginia Wildlife" will carry a full spread of the new hunting laws on pages 14-16. This issue is due off the press the last week in October. The Migratory Waterfowl Regulations issued by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service are also out in quantity. There are also available upon request from the State Game Commission or from any federal game management agent.

Hunters Warned of Forest Fire Danger As Season Opens

"One carelessly tossed cigarette butt or match can destroy more game than that taken by 100 sportsmen entering the forests next Monday," says State Forester George W. Dean. He adds that "forest fires rank as game's deadliest enemy—yet careless hunters were responsible for starting more than twenty-five per cent of the 1001 forest fires burning in Virginia last year."

Hunting season opens at a time when forests are the most inflammable, when fire can become very large and extremely destructive to game, game cover, and game food. Forester Dean appeals to hunters entering dry forests and fields to use extreme caution with fire. He recommends the following simple rules:

1. Be sure your match is out—break it.
2. Crush out your cigarette and bury pipe ashes in bare soil.
3. Be careful with campfires—clear a wide space, free from inflammable material before building any fire.
4. Drown your fire before leaving—the Virginia law requires this.

County Residents Asked to Help Send Christening Gift

Residents of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County are being given the opportunity to participate in the sending of a christening gift to England's baby Princess Anne.

The movement, which is being sponsored by the Princess Anne Garden Club, is open to all who would like to contribute the minimum of 25 cents or more toward the gift. The christening present will go to the baby princess from the county in Virginia named for her royal ancestor, for whom the little baby was also named.

Miss Elizabeth Gregory Hill, president of the sponsoring club, said: "We want the people of Princess Anne County to feel that this is their gift and that they are making it possible. In a world as troubled as that in which we live now, it is a beautiful gesture of friendship and good will to make." The appeal has already met with a wide response, Miss Hill said.

Deadline for contributions is the first week in December. They may be sent to Miss Elizabeth Gregory Hill, Sea Breeze Farm, on the Lynnhaven River, Lynnhaven, Virginia.

Why did they call it PURSUIT of Happiness?

Our early fathers who spoke of the "pursuit" of happiness knew what they were talking about. They knew that happiness, like all other worthwhile things, isn't accidental—that it has to be worked for—that it has to be pursued.

At this Thanksgiving season, 329 years after our first Thanksgiving, Americans as a nation have much to be thankful for. While the threat of war hangs over the world and many thousands of our people are fighting on foreign soil—Americans can be thankful that they have the unity . . . the might . . . and the will to fight for the principles which make national happiness possible.

We can be thankful that we have these oft-defined rights—

The right to worship in our own way; right to free speech, press and assembly; right to habeas corpus and trial by jury; right to privacy in our own home.

Right to vote, secretly, for anyone we want.

Right to commercial risk and venture with the possibilities of loss or profit.

Right to move about freely; right to work in the calling and locality of our choice.

These rights didn't just happen. Americans pursued them, had to work to earn them. Our rights can be held only through the fulfillment of certain duties—

The duty to know and obey the law; to expose subversion.

To be informed on the issues of the day and consistently exercise the franchise to vote; to resist unwarranted political encroachments on freedom.

To work or fight in time of war.

To serve, to save, to share; to avoid greed, and exploitation of others; to curb waste and wasteful practices.

To cooperate voluntarily with others, and thus avoid more laws that would further restrict freedoms.

To demonstrate faith in divine providence by maintaining high moral principles in economic, social and political relations with each other.

The fulfillment of these duties is the strongest guarantee we can give ourselves as a nation this Thanksgiving that our rights will be preserved and that happiness will be accessible to all of us.

Mr. Dan Goldsmith, 3024 Curran Road, Leesville, Ky., owner of Google Cut Rate Store at 935 West Broadway, says there just aren't enough words in the English language to praise HADACOL correctly. He says he knows most folks don't realize what a change HADACOL can make in their life if their systems are deficient in Vitamins B, B₂, Iron and Nicotin.

Here is Mr. Goldsmith's statement: "Before I started taking HADACOL I was run down and nervous—and had a hard time sleeping nights. With my work in the store I have to spend sometimes 14 hours a day on my feet. Since I am in the retail business I saw how many folks were asking for HADACOL so I decided to try it myself. After the first couple of bottles I could tell a definite improvement. Now I have all the pep and energy in the world, my nerves are steady as ever and I really do get a good night's rest. HADACOL is wonderful—I not only take it, but recommend it to all my customers. I praise the day Senator Dudley J. LeBlanc put HADACOL on the market."

HADACOL is So Different
Thousands are benefiting from HADACOL... whose systems lack Vitamins B, B₂, Iron and Nicotin. HADACOL is so wonderful because HADACOL helps build up the hemoglobin content of your blood (when iron is needed) to carry these great Vitamins and Minerals to every body organ—to every part of the body.
Give remarkable HADACOL a chance and if you don't feel better with the first few bottles you take—you get your money back. Only $1.38 for Trial Size; Large Family or Hospital Size, $4.85. If your druggist does not have HADACOL, order it direct from The LeBlanc Corporation, Lafayette, Louisiana.

American Legion Is Again Sponsoring Tide of Toys Project

The American Legion will again carry on its "Tide of Toys" project which last year resulted in three million toys being delivered to the hard-not children of Western European nations and the British Isles at Christmas time.

Joseph L. Hodges, of South Boston, Commander of the Virginia Department of the American Legion, has announced that posts in the Old Dominion will make an all-out effort to exceed last year's collection when 50,000 toys were collected in Virginia.

On a nation-wide scale, last year's project resulted in three million toys being donated by the children of the United States.

It is hoped that the number of toys to be collected in this year's "Tide of Toys" campaign will reach 15 million, and it is planned to increase the points of distribution to include some Pacific and Caribbean areas.

The Navy accepted its first submarine just fifty years ago April 11. It weighed only 74 tons and was identified as a "submersible torpedo boat."

STORIES APPLIED

When you think of America's pioneer heroes, you should include the name of Jim Bridger. He couldn't read or write, yet he knew more about the West than any living man. Even army topographical engineers corrected their maps when Bridger, from memory, pointed out their errors.

Once while looking for beaver skins in 1824 Bridger followed a tip from the Crow Indians and discovered South Pass. It was an easy route over the continental divide and later became the trail for wagon trains bound for California.

And once Bridger made himself a boat of buffalo hide and willow sticks and set out to follow the course of Bear River. Presently, he found himself gazing upon an enormous expanse of water. Probably he was the first white man on this spot—Great Salt Lake. But Bridger didn't know this at the time. He took a salty drink of it and spat. "Hell," he said, "I've reached the Pacific Ocean."

Great as was Bridger's aid to the American colonizer and map maker, what most interests sportsmen today are his adventures as a hunter and trapper. He hunted elk, antelope, buffalo, deer and bear all over the vast area that runs from Canada to Colorado, the Missouri to Idaho and Utah. Alongside Jim Bridger, Daniel Boone seems almost a stay-at-home and Davy Crockett a boy tied to his mother's apron strings.

When it came to the western Indian, Bridger knew them all. He talked their lingo and understood their signals. It was Bridger who taught the wagon trains to corral in a circle at night and stand off Indian attack.

He was born in Virginia in 1804. Both parents were dead by the time he was 13; then the family moved to St. Louis. When he was 18 he started off as a trapper on the routing that was to last as long as he could get around on two feet. In the 1830's he realized the best days of the fur trade were gone. So he built Ft. Bridger on the trail that was taking covered wagons to Oregon. He sold them supplies, repaired guns and wagons and told them how to get where they wanted to go. But sometimes the wanderlust would gnaw at him.

Then he found a new outlet as a guide for the Army's western explorations. It was to be the last phase of his active years. His last job for them was in 1868. Then he went off to a little farm he had bought near Kansas City, Mo. He was 77 when he died. Today you can see the grave in Mount Washington Cemetery in Kansas City, of Jim Bridger the roving hunter, one of the heroes who led American colonizers into the West.

Materials to Build Garages Plentiful

1950's record automobile production has accentuated the need for new garages, W. K. Macdonald of Princess Anne Lumber Company, said this week.

Six million cars were produced last year, and to protect these high-priced cars many new garages are needed, he said.

Mr. Macdonald explained that war-time restrictions on construction left a shortage of garages. This shortage has been increased by the number of new cars.

Now, however, construction materials are quickly available, so that home owners can have attractive, easy to build garages, he added.

The small vertical spars at the bow and stern of a U. S. Navy ship are the jack staff and the flagstaff respectively.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Conrad Little were guests last week-end of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rivers at their home in Richmond, Va., and attended the opening dance of the Commonwealth Club on Saturday evening.

'Education' Subject of Meeting Of Chesapeake Beach Club

The Women's Club of Chesapeake Beach held its regular luncheon meeting Tuesday of last week at the Chesapeake Beach Community Center. "Education" was the theme of the meeting, with Mrs. Lewis Cawley, chairman of education, in charge of the program. Speakers were J. Warren Littleton, principal, and Edwin R. Charles, athletic director, of Kempville High School.

Mr. Littleton spoke on the school program of studies and expressed the belief that one main cause of lack of public support for schools is due to lack of information. "Ninety-five per cent of the public opinion concerning the merits or shortcomings of a particular school is formed by observation of extra-curricular activities, such as athletic contests, band parades, plays and other school functions which have their conception in the classroom, but do not reach their completed forms until they are presented for the approval of the public. Little is known about actual classroom instruction or the objectives of the various courses," he said.

"In any attempt to inform the public of the school program it is desirable to state the philosophy of education possessed by the administration and faculty," he continued. "We believe that the school should be neither strictly child-centered nor teacher dominated; that it should be organized and administered on the principles of cooperation, loyalty, and sincerity by students and faculty. We believe that there should be a close relationship between parents and teachers, and they should work together for the welfare of the child.

"As far as possible, there should be a challenging and suitably varied program which shall meet the needs of those students anticipating college instruction and of those who do not.

"Every effort should be made to understand the individual child and his problems and to provide an environment which shall contribute to the development of a well-rounded individual. We further believe that every good teacher is a guidance teacher, and that the guidance program should be developed through the work of individual teachers and through the efforts of a special guidance director.

"Every child should be taught to understand and appreciate the democratic way of life. The principles of democracy should be stressed in all phases of classroom activity," he said.

Mr. Littleton cited the 134 per cent increase in enrollment since 1945-46 and stated that overcrowding constitutes the main problem of the high school.

In answer to many questions, Mr. Littleton affirmed the accredited standing of Kempville High School. The faculty is composed of nine men and thirteen women, all of whom are fully certified by the State Department of Education and hold college degrees, and three have masters degrees.

Mr. Charles gave the athletic program of the school, stating that athletics, if they are to be justified, must have educational value. He gave "clean speech" and "clean living" as prime objectives of the athletic program.

Farm Workers to Be Eligible for Social Security

A definition of the word "regular" as it applies to farm workers who are eligible for social security benefits was given recently by social security administration officials.

The amended federal social security act, which for the first time gives protection to farm workers, goes into effect on January 1, 1951.

The officials explain:

A regular farm worker under the act is, first, a person who works for cash wages over a certain period of time on one farm. To qualify, he must be employed continuously for one three-month period on one farm, then continued to work on that same farm at least 60 days in the next three-month period.

For that 60 days or more of work he must be paid at least $60 in cash wages.

In other words, to have farm work count toward social security insurance benefits, the worker must stay put on one farm for three months, plus at least 60 days of the following calendar quarter.

A calendar quarter is a three-month period beginning with January, April, July, or October. The 60 or more days of work, and $60 or more cash wages, must come within one of these three-month periods.

For instance, suppose you work steadily on a farm during the three months of April, May, and June, then move to another farm and earn more than $60 in cash for work in July. The July wages

Heavy Soybean Harvest in State May Affect Price

PMA Seeks Orderly Marketing of Crop to Protect Producers

Virginia's soybean harvest this year may exceed 3½ million bushels, according to latest U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates. A crop of that size would be a fifth larger than last year and over twice the ten-year average soybean production.

Nevertheless, prices received by farmers so far this season have averaged slightly better than a year ago. According to R. W. Lane, chairman of the Princess Anne County PMA Committee, this may be due to an anticipated increase in demand.

"Farmers can help retain a firm wouldn't count toward social security benefits for two reasons. First, the three months of steady work was on another farm. Second, you worked less than 60 days on the next farm.

On the other hand, suppose you work steadily on a farm during April, May, and June, then stay on that farm and earn $60 or more for steady work during July and August. The July and August work and wages will count toward old-age and survivors insurance benefits.

market for their beans by marketing," Mr. Lane said. "By holding back at least part of the crop, farmers can avoid overloading the market and the resulting price drop. They can do this by agreeing that PMA will support a base rate of $2.51 a bushel. By storing the crop farmers may get immediate cash through loans or they may agree to a marketing agreement with PMA. Both are available through January."

Mr. Lane explained that farmers must either provide outside on-farm storage for their soybeans or place them in one of several PMA approved warehouses. These warehouses charge 11 cents per bushel for storage. If the producer redeems his loan there is an additional charge of 8 cents per bushel for receiving and loading out. If loans are not redeemed and PMA takes over the grain the farmer does not pay for receiving and loading out.

Last year, the government loan program was very successful in Virginia. Mr. Lane pointed out that the entire amount of 120,000 bushels placed under price support was redeemed at a substantial profit to farmers.

According to PMA figures, producers who stored 1949 soybeans under loan and sold them in the spring received up to 50 cents per bushel more than the average price at harvest time. That more than offset the cost of storage and handling.

U. S. Department of Agriculture authorities consider that soybeans should have not over 14 percent moisture content for safe storage in this section of the country during fall and winter. For post-harvest storage they recommend not more than 12 percent moisture.

The closest approved warehouse for receiving Princess Anne County soybeans for PMA loans is at the Tidewater Regional Market, Glenview, Va. (all grains) and Guy W. Capps, Euclid, Va. (soybeans in sacks only).

Farmers may get complete details on the 1950 price support program on soybeans from the PMA county office in Pungo.

Thoroughgood Club Installs Officers

The Thoroughgood Home Demonstration Club, Robbins Corner, Haystack, installed Mrs. T. E. Stevens as president at its regular meeting November 7. Other officers installed were Mrs. Ross Brubaker, vice president; Miss Kathleen Mason, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. William Compton, citizenship chairman; and Mrs. S. H. Goode, garden chairman.

Mrs. S. W. Harvey, outgoing president, told of the program given by the sixth grade at Haystack School on United Nations Day. In a playlet centered around a simulated television program, one child gave the history in Polish at the same time another translated it into English. In response to a wish expressed for a United Nations flag for their school, Mrs. Harvey presented a flag from the Thoroughgood Home Demonstration Club.

Mrs. Ross Brubaker gave a demonstration on pictures and accessories, showing his pictures and functional furniture.

The club met at the home of Mrs. T. E. Stevens.

Don Seiwel Made Associate Editor of American Magazine

The appointment of Don Seiwel, a former Virginia Beach News editor, as an associate editor of The American Magazine was announced today by Editor Sumner Blomson.

Mr. Seiwel has had considerable experience in various phases of newspaper and magazine publishing. Following his graduation from the University of North Carolina he edited the Finchburg Post and later was news editor of the Richmond (Va.) Times-Dispatch, editor of the Virginia Beach News, and president of The Seiwel Advertising Agency. During 1943-44 he served with the War Finance Board and then became associated with the Birmingham (Ala.) Post where he served first as city editor, then managing editor and chief editorial writer.

He is a native of Hazleton, Pa., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Seiwel, who a few months ago moved from 734 West Second Street, Hazleton, to Bridge Street, Lehighton, Pa.

Farmers Asked To Produce More Corn Next Year

Secretary of Agriculture Brannan has asked for a larger crop of corn next year to meet increasing demands for food under the National Defense Food Program. More corn will ensure plenty of food to produce more meat, dairy and poultry products.

Agricultural economists say it appears that the public will demand more meat next year. This demand, if supplied, will require heavy usage of corn reserves. Thus, farmers must step up production to maintain safe food reserves for the future.

Acreage allotments will continue in effect in 1951 in certain areas of Virginia, according to R. B. Bridgforth, State committee chairman of the Production and Marketing Administration.

In 1950, allotments on corn were in operation in twelve counties of Northern and Eastern Virginia, he said. Next year's allotments are expected to be somewhat larger in view of the Secretary's announcement. How much larger will be announced later.

Advance notice is given in accordance with a policy to allow farmers to plan production and for fall preparation of corn land to be planted in the spring.
